Ike – Mr. K In Deadlock

Berlin Issue No. 1 Topic In Debate

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (AP)—President Eisenhower and Premier Nikita Khrushchev were reported deadlocked Saturday night after spending most of the day concentrating on the Berlin issue and related German problems — the core of their cold war disagreements.

While Eisenhower was understood to have budged not an inch from the American position, Khrushchev was reported standing equally firm on the Soviet side.

But they did agree to go into the delicate, dangerous issue of Berlin and Germany at their final working session Sunday before they wind up a weekend on a Maryland mountain top and Khrushchev heads for home.

In spite of the deadlock at this point, there was a possibility that Eisenhower and Khrushchev might come out of the probing of each other's positions with some sort of formula for a new session of the British, French, Soviet and U.S. foreign ministers on the Berlin question.

The essence of Khrushchev's stand is that sooner or later the Western allies must pull their troops from West Berlin and permit the city to operate under some form of international guarantees. The American position is four power occupation of Berlin must continue until there is a peace treaty with a united Germany, and that meanwhile the Soviet Union must respect rights in West Berlin.

Eisenhower and Khrushchev bore down in hours of confidental, intensive conversations on the dangerous cold war issue of Berlin and Germany.

They concentrated on this almost to the exclusion of all other East-West problems.

The talk will continue Sunday on the final day of Khrushchev's stay in the United States.

U.S., Russians Not Too Far Apart--Thomas

NEW YORK (AP) — Socialist leader Norman Thomas says the American and Soviet economic systems will resemble each other substantially within the next 20 years.

Thomas, six times the Socialist party candidate for the presidency and a consistent critic of Communists, appeared Friday night on a radio program.

"I think that within 20 years there will be a very substantial approximation of the Russian and American economic systems, he said. "The difference won't be too great. There is already a tendency in Russia to decentralize. . . ."

In the United States, Thomas said, there is a trend toward government control of highly expensive or controversial technical developments, such as atomic energy.

Packer Offers New Contract To Strikers

CHICAGO (AP) — A federal mediator has called a meeting for Monday in an effort to settle a strike at Swift & Co. which has invited its 17,000 strikers to return at higher pay.

The meeting of management and the United Packinghouse Workers and Amalgamated Meat Cutters negotiators was called by William G. Murray of the U.S. Conciliation Service.

Swift's offer of a raise of 8½ cents an hour, made directly to striking workers by letter, was rejected by the unions last week. The Swift plants have been struck since Sept. 4.

Union leaders predicted the strikers will ignore the offer to resume work at Swift plants which have remained open during the strike.

Swift is making the wage increase retroactive to Sept. 1 and is incorporating into the basic wage a cost-of-living adjustment of 14 cents an hour. It also increased premium payments for weekend and night work.

The average pay in Swift contracts that expired Aug. 31 was $2.56 an hour.

Kefauver Claims Drug Charges Are Too High

WASHINGTON (AP) — The financial records of five large banks and 20 of the largest drug manufacturers have been subpoenaed by the Senate antitrust subcommittee, an aide for the group said today.

John M. Blair, an economist for the subcommittee, said the records are sought because they show various financial houses own an appreciable share in two or more competing drug firms.

He said Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn), chairman of the monopoly subcommittee, plans public hearings later in this connection as part of an overall Senate investigation into the high costs of prescription drugs starting Nov. 30.

Blair said records of drug company ownership had been subpoenaed from three large New York City banks — Chase Manhattan, Bankers Trust, and Morgan Guaranty Trust. The names of two other large banks will be identified later, he said.

The economist said similar records of ownership in large drug manufacturing companies also are under subpoena from numerous investment houses and mutual funds in New York City and Massachusetts.

Mystery Murder Quiz Shifts To Peoria

PEORIA, Ill. (AP)— Efforts to break the mystery slaying of Donald Richmond, 35-year - old night club operator, shifted from East St. Louis to Peoria Saturday.

Two men were held for questioning in Peoria, and authorities sought Richmond's estranged wife Ada, and another Peoria underworld figure.

Peoria police said they were asked to pursue the possibility that the shooting of Richmond in his bedroom in Washington Park, near East St. Louis, Friday night might be connected with a larceny complaint Richmond had filed against his wife.

Richmond and a companion, Mary Madeline Robinson, 23, an entertainer in his Club 50 near East St. Louis, were confronted by a short, stocky, blond gunman, as they were about to leave his apartment. Miss Robinson told police they were forced back inside where Richmond was bound, robbed of $3,000 and a diamond ring, and killed with three pistol shots in the back of his head.

Freed Herself

Miss Robinson said she, too, was tied up, but worked free of her bonds.

Miss Robinson was held by police of Washington Park as a material witness.

Richmond had been scheduled to appear Wednesday at a Circuit Court preliminary hearing on his complaint that his wife stole $1,000 from his Peoria night club.

Mrs. Richmond, a strip - tease dancer who went to Chicago after the alleged theft incident, returned to Peoria voluntarily to face the larceny charge. She told police she took only $336 which she had saved and hidden in a cigar box. She was free on bond pending the hearing.

Sheriff Daniel Ring of St. Clair County asked Peoria police to question Mrs. Richmond and three Peoria men who have police records. Still sought was Mike O'Bannon.

Captives Held

Held without charge for questioning were Buckey Batchelter and Bob Carpenter who were seized about 3:30 a. m. in Walt's Corner, a Peoria tavern. The killing occurred about 8:30 p. m.

Carpenter and O'Bannon have been indicted in the $3,700 robbery and beating Aug. 7 of a Rock Island man, William Altneau at Brimfield near Peoria.

Altneau told police he was lured into an ambush by a woman he met in a Peoria tavern.

Comrade En-Lai Puts Communism Over Imperialism

TOKYO (AP)—Communist China's Premier Chou En-lai, said Saturday that the forces of socialism are prevailing over those of imperialism, Peiping Radio reported.

Peiping said Chou was speaking at a banquet given to delegates of the Soviet Union and other countries present for Communist China's 10th anniversary Oct. 1.

"The successful landing of the second Soviet space rocket on the moon, Comrade Khrushchev's visit to the United States, and the new Soviet proposal for comprehensive disarmament have greatly inspired the confidence of the peace-loving countries and peoples in their struggle for the relaxation of international tension and for the preservation of world peace," Chou said.

"The present situation abroad is extremely favorable for China's Socialist construction.

Billy Graham Vexed With U.S., Khrushchev

WHEATON, Ill. (AP)—Evangelist Billy Graham today criticized the exclusion of religion from Premier Nikita Khrushchev's visit to the United States.

Graham said he is disappointed that officials have not had anyone say grace at the banquets the Soviet leader has attended and that Khrushchev has not been invited to attend church during his stay.

"I certainly hope that President Eisenhower will invite him to church Sunday," Graham said at a news conference.

Khrushchev is his house guest and if he should refuse to go, it would put Khrushchev on the spot."

Reporters asked Graham's opinion on why the Soviet premier has alluded to God during his speeches. The evangelist gave three explanations:

1. God is in the Russian leader's subconscious. Graham said he doubts that there are any really, true atheists.

2. Khrushchev also may be deliberately attempting to show Americans he does tolerate God and is not a bad sort after all.

3. Khrushchev is the object of millions of prayers and "perhaps God is speaking to him."

Graham conducted a news conference in connection with his evangelistic crusade that will start Sunday at Wheaton College, his alma mater, and run for eight days.

The religious meetings will be in Centennial Field which seats 13,000 persons and will accommodate 6,000 standees. The crusade originally was planned for the college students and faculty but requests from townspeople prompted him to enlarge its scope.

Graham said he is not planning any long crusades such as that held in Madison Square Garden, New York. He has had so many invitations, he said, that he has decided to hold more crusades and make them shorter.

The prime objective of the Wheaton sessions, he declared, will be "to get Christ out of the walls of the church and into the lives of the people."

Missile Men Feel Pains

Did Russian Chief 'Jinx' Our Program?

By HOWARD BENEDICT

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — Missile men here are shaking their heads over a rash of rocket failures during Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev's visit to the United States.

They can't remember when so many things have gone haywire in a short period. And no one has a ready explanation.

"You'd think that Khrushchev's shadow had fallen across the Cape jinxing the place," an official commented.

There have been some successes, too. But they seem lost among the series of fizzles. Some of the nation's most reliable missiles were among the victims.

The biggest shock came Thursday when an Atlas-Able rocket, being groomed to hurl a satellite around the moon in October, blew up during a ground test of its engines.

The shot has been postponed indefinitely.

As a result of the explosion, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration is making a careful study of other space shots scheduled this fall.

Other failures in the last two weeks:

1. A Jupiter missile carrying mice and frogs flew off course and was destroyed 1,000 feet above its launching pad. Fragments of

No Hopes Seen For Quick End Of Glass Strike

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Negotiators called a weekend recess in efforts to end the two-week old strike of 2,000 moldmakers against the glass container manufacturing industry.

Federal mediator William Rose said nothing occurred during a three-hour morning session to indicate an early break in the deadlocked talks. He said the two sides will meet jointly again Monday.

The Monday session, Rose said, will bring representatives of all 26 strike - harassed firms and members of the American Flint Glass Workers Union's executive board to the bargaining table.

Rose said the increased representation is "only an effort to try and break the deadlock." Recently only the negotiating teams of the union and industry have been meeting.

The moldmakers walked off the job Sept. 13 when the industry insisted that any new contract must contain a provision for arbitration to settle grievances.

Under the old contract grievances were held until negotiators met to work out a new contract. The union wants to continue this policy.

Money issues have not been discussed at recent negotiating sessions. But when last brought up the union was seeking a 13 cent an hour increase and the industry was countering with an offer to hike wages an average of 8¡ cents an hour.

At Least Four Killed In Midwest Storm

ST. LOUIS (AP)—A squall line spawning tornadoes and severe thunderstorms cut across the nation's midlands Saturday. Ominous clouds threatened St. Louis.

The line extended from the north Arkansas border across Missouri, southeastern Iowa, and into Illinois and Wisconsin and the Weather Bureau warned it would reach into Michigan.

At least four persons were killed as storms struck a number of communities.

A tornado struck near Lepanto, in northeast Arkansas, late Saturday, shattering a wide area of houses and farm buildings, police reported.

Officer S. M. Hensley said "they're a lot of people hurt."

It was not known if there were any deaths.

The twister hit about 6:30 p.m. (CST).

A tornadic windstorm raked Monmouth, in northwestern Illinois, killing one man and smashing store fronts, utility lines and trees.

About 50 miles northeast of Monmouth a tornado slashed through the edge of Bradford, destroying several farm buildings. Power and telephone lines were knocked out.

Three highway deaths were attributed to turbulent weather.

A massive tornado with a base a quarter-mile wide splintered the little town of Grovespring in southwest Missouri shortly before 3 p.m.

The 145 residents of Grovesprings watched the funnel approach for five minutes and were able to take cover. No one was hurt.

A twister struck Chelsea in east central Iowa, damaging a number of homes, tearing down power lines and uprooting scores of trees. Seventeen small planes were demolished at the Cedar Rapids, Iowa, airport.

A funnel that didn't touch down was reported by the Missouri highway patrol about two miles north of the St. Louis Airport. Heavy rain and hail fell.

A small tornado touched down on Milwaukee's southeast side Saturday night, tearing the roof from one home, collapsing a garage and damaging several other residences. None was injured.

Ceylon Garbs White To Mourn Minister

COLOMBO, Ceylon (AP)—This island nation Saturday night mourned its assassinated Prime Minister, Solomon Bandaranaike, shot down by a fanatic Buddhist monk.

Ceylon was draped in white, the traditional mourning color in this Buddhist land, as Bandaranaike's close associate, Wijayananada Dahanayake, was sworn in as his successor.

Educated In Britain

Messages of condolence poured in from all over the world for the 60-year-old, British - educated champion of Asian neutralism who died in a hospital Saturday after he had appeared to be rallying from a five-hour operation. Three bullets had struck him — in the liver, spleen and arm.

Sir Oliver Goonetilleke, who as governor-general is the crown's representative in this Asian island member of the British Commonwealth, proclaimed a state of emergency to head off possible political violence.

Then he summoned Dahanayake to take over as prime minister.

Dahanayake, 57 and a former Red revolutionary turned conservative, indicated he would carry on his friend's policies. He was Bandaranaike's education minister.

Police held under heavy guard a monk identified as Talduwa Sovarama, 43, attached to the Ayurvedic (Indigenous) College Hospital. He was wounded by a sentry as he fled from the assassination scene.

Differ On Treatment

Police supported a theory that the suspect was angered because Bandaranaike would not supplant Western medicine with the Ayurvedic practice of medicine—a secret system of treatment by herbs and massages.

While authorities had feared violence as news of the assassination spread, there was only mourning.

As news of his death spread Saturday morning, a mile-long queue of sobbing men and women formed outside Colombo's General Hospital to view the body.

The body will be moved Monday to the House of Representatives and lie in state for three days before cremation at Bandaranaike's country residence, Horogalla, Thursday.

Fewer Fatalities On Illinois Roads

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP)—Robert A. Campbell, Illinois traffic safety coordinator, said today the state's highway death toll, reduced in 1958, is falling again this year.

Campbell, speaking to the Illinois Women's Traffic Safety Conference, said 1958 fatalities were 210 below 1957.

This year deaths total 1,203, or 29 below last year at this time.

The Pilgrims sailed from Plymouth, England, on Sept. 16, 1620. Thus the name for Plymouth Rock where they landed.

Sen. Humphries Of Minnesota Assails GOP

MILWAUKEE (AP)— Sen. Hubert Humphrey (D - Minn) today opened a five- day tour of Wisconsin by blasting the Eisenhower administration as a "no-go, go-slow, not - now, veto administration."

Humphrey, a leading aspirant for the 1960 presidential nomination, told a Milwaukee breakfast gathering that the Republican administration "doesn't believe in good, progressive government and it fights us to the very end."

The Republicans cannot capture Congress in 1960, Humphrey said, so the Democratic party must concentrate its efforts toward putting "a sensible, constructive, progressive liberal Democrat in the White House."

Humphrey took notice of the fact that two other leading Democrats, Sen. John F. Kennedy, (D-Mass) and Adlai Stevenson, are in Wisconsin this weekend.

Stevenson, he commented, "is one of the truly great men of our time." Concerning Kennedy, Humphrey said, "I've been reading his messages. They're good. He's done a good job."

California Judge Sets High Bond For Miss Tregoff

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A judge ordered Carole Tregoff, charged in the slaying of her lover's wife, to show cause Saturday why she should not go back to jail pending trial or have her bail raised to $100,000.

She currently is free under a $25,000 cash bond.

The prosecution has said new evidence shows that Miss Tregoff and Dr. Bernard Finch were cold-blooded plotters who became killers after unsuccessful attempts to hire a murderer.

The two are charged with murder in the July 18 shooting of Barbara Finch, 33, outside Mrs. Finch's fashionable West Covina home.

Superior Court Judge James G. Whyte ordered the 22-year-old divorcee to appear next Friday to answer the action.

Finch, 41, is scheduled to stand trial with his former secretary on Nov. 24.

Romny Assails Both Industry And Unions

DETROIT (AP)—George Romny, American Motors Corp. president, declared Saturday night that the current steel strike deadlock is leading the nation toward collectivism and should be broken by aroused public opinion and legislative action.

"Excess industry and union power in America must be destroyed or it will destroy us," Romney said in a speech prepared for accepting an "American Democratic Living Award" from the Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith, a Jewish fraternal organization. Romney is a Mormon.

"The inevitable end of the collective bargaining and industrial concentration road we are traveling is governmental control and regulation," he said.

"The longer we travel it, the more difficult it will be to turn back. Unless we turn back, America will adopt the essential collectivism we oppose in others," he added.

Report Trujillo Ready To Resist Cuban Invaders

PORT AU PRINCE, Haiti (AP)—Reports reaching here Saturday from the neighboring Dominican Republic said Generalissimo Rafael Trujillo has mobilized his entire army to deal with an invasion force from Cuba.

An informed source said the Haitian government received word that a boat carrying 86 persons left Caimanera, near the U.S. naval base at Guantanamo Bay, Cuba, this week.

There were no outward signs here, however, that the government or army were unduly concerned about the invasion reports.

An invasion force of 30 men from Cuba landed in southeast Haiti Aug. 13. All either were killed or captured.

President May Move To End Steel Strike

Storms Rip Through Missouri, Illinois

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Twisters and violent winds slashed into the Midwest Saturday, wrecking business buildings and homes and disrupting power lines.

At least five deaths were attributed to the storms.

A tornado hit the business district in Grovespring, Mo., 45 miles east of Springfield, making kindling of four houses, a lumber yard and several business buildings.

Residents of Grovespring, a community of 145, watched the funnel approach and were able to take cover and escape injury.

High winds also struck in other parts of Missouri and in Iowa and Illinois.

Strong winds occasionally accompanied by hail pounded other communities in Missouri, including Mexico, Columbia, Kingdom City, Springfield, Princeton, Helena, Bethany, Eagleville and Ridgeway. Two persons were killed in a car accident on a rain-swept highway in northwest Missouri.

Violent winds and at least one tornado hammered parts of Iowa. A twister struck Chelsea in east-central Iowa damaging a number of homes and damaging power lines. At least one person died in Iowa as a result of the storm.

Two persons died in Illinois storms, one at Monmouth in the northwest part of the state and another in Quincy on the west edge of the central part of the state.

Heavy winds wrecked communications and power facilities at Harpers Ferry in northeast Iowa.

A twister damaged several farm buildings at Bradford, Ill., north of Peoria.

A five-inch blanket of new snow was spread over the Leadville area of the Colorado Rockies and in the Southeast, hurricane Gracie lost much of her zip.

FBI Chief Concerned With Young Hoodlums

By JACK ADAMS

WASHINGTON (AP) — Recent teen-age violence in New York and other cities brought a demand from FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover Saturday for a stern and "all-out counterattack against vicious young thugs."

He called the problem of youthful crime a monster of frightening proportions.

In an editorial in the October issue of the FBI Law Enforcement Bulletin, Hoover advocated the fingerprinting and public naming of youthful "punks" who defy the law. He said parents who inflict vicious offspring on their fellow men "deserve to feel the sting of public indignation and to face legal and financial responsibility for the criminal acts of their children."

News Invaluable

"A valuable ally in the fight against crime, the news media of the nation can afford further public service in focusing the spotlight of public opinion on those members of the judiciary who, in the face of the present crisis, persist in endangering the public by unleashing young terrorists apprehended at great risk by law enforcement officers," he added.

Savagery

"In 1958, arrests of juveniles under the age of 18 increased 8 per cent, while arrests of adults rose 1.8 per cent," he said. "Alarmingly, not only the frequency of youth crimes but the savagery of these offenses is mounting day by day, year by year. . .

"Action against this youth menace must not be delayed. . .

"It is my firm conviction that the all-out campaign against these flagrant young criminals who commit serious crimes must include publishing their names and crimes for public information, the ready availability of past records for the information of appropriate law enforcement officers, and fingerprinting of these young lawbreakers for future identification. . .

"We are dealing with vicious young criminals, and they should be treated as such."

Owens-Illinois Charges Violence

ALTON, Ill. (AP) — The Owens-Illinois Glass Co., charging striking employes with acts of violence on the picket line, asked today for an injunction against mass picketing and further disturbances.

The petition was filed in Alton City Court and named two locals of the striking Flint Glass Workers of North America and 17 officers of the two unions.

The company alleged several non-striking employes were beaten, shoved or threatened as they attempted to enter the big Alton plant Friday. The plant has 3,100 employes.

NO OFFENSE TO CALL A PERSON SKINNY

BUENOS AIRES (AP)—An Argentine court has ruled it's not defamatory to call a person "skinny" or "fatty." It dismissed slander charges against a news vendor who called President Frondizi "skinny" in hawking a humorous publication carrying a fictitious story about him. The Argentine President is tall and thin—or skinny, if you please.

CUBAN ROAD PLANS

HAVANA (AP)—A 100-million-dollar bond issue to pay for expropriation of lands under Cuba's agrarian law was authorized by the government today. It was understood other issues will follow. Bonds authorized today mature in 20 years and pay 4½ per cent annual interest.

TOO MUCH COAL– RUHR MINERS MARCH

BONN, West Germany (AP)—Thousands of miners—silent and waving black flags — marched through Bonn today demanding government action to cope with a mounting coal crisis.

With the rich Ruhr giving up millions of tons of coal more than can be sold, many pits face a shutdown and miners are losing their jobs.

Union leaders said 2,000 miners were taking part in the demonstration, the biggest in the 10-year history of this West Berlin capital.

Flying Parson Lost In Utah Mountains

KELLOGG, Utah (AP) — More bad weather Saturday grounded the search for a flying parson from Illinois, his aged mother and two sisters missing in a rented plane in the rugged Bitterroot Mountains.

About a half dozen volunteer pilots were standing by for a break in the weather. Ground parties, with a vast mountainous area to cover, were also hampered by rain.

The Rev. Carl Freese, about 45, pastor of the First Apostolic Church at Mattoon, Ill., took off from Spokane about 4 p.m. Thursday on a 170-mile flight over the mountains to Missoula, Mont.

He radioed the airport at nearby Mullan, Idaho, 75 minutes later and asked for a heading to Missoula. He said the flying weather was bad. Nothing more has been heard from the red and silver Cessna 170.

With the pastor were his 78-year-old mother, Mrs. Rosine Freese, and his sisters, Mrs. Hilda Simkins, 45, Cobden, Ill., and Mrs. Marie Takniete, 62, Chicago.

Sheriff Lou Gardner of Wallace, an old hand at mountain searches in this region, went out with a ground party Friday.

"The visibility was just about nil with the fog," he said, "and there was nothing we could do. We're ready to go again as soon as the weather improves. There was some snow up there Friday."

There was no indication of any better weather. Temperatures dropped below freezing overnight in the area of peaks up to 7,000 feet.

Two light planes ventured up briefly Friday but didn't find a trace. They were forced back by weather after little more than a hour aloft.

Search planes and ground parties from the Montana side of the mountainous region were also standing by Saturday.

The Rev. Freese rented a plane Sept. 16 at Effingham, Ill., and flew west with his mother and sisters for a wedding at Vancouver, B.C. They were on their way home when their plane vanished.

Strike Began July 15—Now Hurting Many

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower may move next week to stop the steel strike, which is gradually shutting down one factory after another.

Indications that Eisenhower may step into the deadlock grew Saturday as Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell conferred with Federal Mediation Director Joseph F. Finnegan.

Mitchell and Finnegan were reported considering these possible courses:

1. Asking Eisenhower to make another and probably final appeal to both sides for a settlement of differences over wages and working conditions.

2. Moving the stalled union-management negotiations from New York to Washington for a final effort at reaching an agreement.

3. Invoking the Taft-Hartley Act emergency procedures early next week. This would involve obtaining a court order requiring the strikers to return to work for an 80-day period of cooling off and fact-finding. If no agreement was reached, the strike could resume at the end of 80 days.

"Open Secret"

It has been an open secret that the administration wanted to avoid resorting to the mandatory strike-stopping procedures of the Taft-Hartley Act while Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev was in this country. Khrushchev is due to leave for home Sunday night.

Beyond saying they were reviewing the entire situation, Mitchell and Finnegan were silent on the nature of their discussions.

The Labor Department reported Saturday night that cutbacks in production and employment are likely to increase sharply by mid-October unless the strike is settled before then.

In its fourth semimonthly survey of the impact of the strike, which started July 15, the department said some 660,000 workers now are off their regular jobs and have lost wages totaling 700 million dollars.

Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell said in releasing the report that while the over-all economic situation continues strong, the impact of the shutdown is increasing on factory employment.

More Than Half

The survey, which covers the first half of September, showed

FISH ADVICE

CHICAGO (AP)—Fish share the human dishlike of being crowded together in hot weather.

"What a fish needs in hot weather is plenty of room," says Walter H. Chute, director of Chicago's Shedd Aquarium.

When the water gets warm, there is less oxygen in it, and if your tank is too crowded the fish will die."

Chute says, "To keep them cool, keep plenty of space between them."

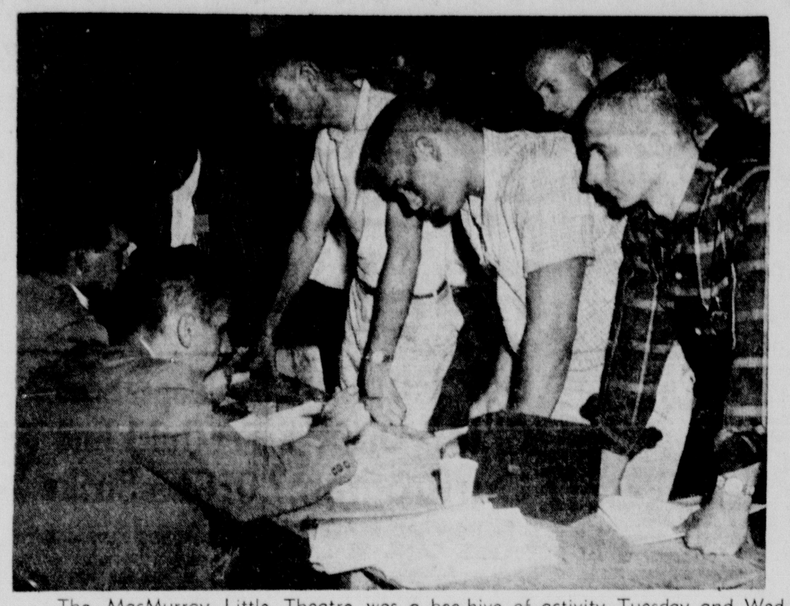
DR. NORRIS MEETS STUDENTS

President Louis W. Norris meets one of about 240 new women at MacMurray, who Monday evening met faculty and administration at a formal reception in McClelland Dining Hall. Introducing President and student here is Spencer Lane, center, Director of Admissions. Students had been treated to a picnic supper at 6 p.m., Monday on the Chapel lawn, then rounded off the evening with a program of music in Ann Marshall Orr Auditorium.

ODDS NOT REALLY THIS HIGH!

A last-second intruder in this picture, James Pettit of Tuscola, Ill., makes it appear that the men were outnumbered at last Monday's formal reception for all new students in McClelland Dining Hall. Actually, however, more than 100 additional men brought their total to over 300 compared with 500 women. It is President Norris' wish that the ratio will reach 1 to 1 (600 in each college) by 1962.

CLASS REGISTRATION



The MacMurray Little Theatre was a bee-hive of activity Tuesday and Wednesday as students registered for first semester classes. Here, Dr. Charles E. Moulton, Associate Professor of Mathematics, assists men in registration. A new mathematics instructor, Edwin Ecker, is at left. Although official registration figures have not as yet been released by the Recorder's office, it is estimated that more than 350 new students registered — (freshmen and transfer students) — bringing the total to 801 full-time undergraduates — (not counting graduate students, special students, and evening school students).

HOSTS AT RECEPTION

MacMurray Students Exceed 800 For Year

It was just one bloody thing after another last week for 817 students at MacMurray College.

First, it was Orientation Sunday for 350 freshmen and transfer students. Then came speeches by faculty and administration. Next, an informal reception, a formal reception, class registration (first A to K, then L to Z), health tests, and finally, just plain tests.

But they loved it. And before they knew it, students from more than 30 states across the nation had been whirled into classes, which began Thursday. It was MacMurray's 114th year.

509 Women, 292 Men

Although complete enrollment figures have not as yet been released by the Recorder's office, the advance count of regular, full-time undergraduate students stands at 801. The total includes 509 women and 292 men in freshman, sophomore, and junior classes. An additional 16 special students and graduate students brings the total to 817, not counting evening school students and other part-time students.

It was an unusual sight in Annie Merner Chapel Wednesday evening when President Louis W. Norris welcomed students back at an all-school convocation. Robed faculty were sitting in one section, while students filled most of the main floor and a good part of the balcony. In the days when MacMurray was only a women's college, the average yearly enrollment of between 400 and 500 left large gaps in the chapel.

Formal Reception Monday

MacMurray faculty and administration met all new students at a formal reception Monday evening in McClelland Dining Hall. Up to that time, they had talked informally with students on the chapel lawn, and perhaps met a few during tests or counseling activities during the day.

The first day of orientation week (Monday) began with a series of tests for all new students in Henry Pfeiffer Library. Special tests in language were then given in Main Hall, with placement tests for all students planning to take Mathematics in Science Hall.

Class registration started Tuesday, extending through Wednesday afternoon in the Little Theater. In addition, all new students were scheduled for individual conferences with faculty. Health conferences were also held.

The week's activities ended Saturday afternoon with an all-school picnic at the MacMurray cabin on Lake Mauvaisterre. When the din subsided, another normal school year had begun.

Mrs. Kessinger, wife of a McCoy, Va., farmer, recently gave birth to her 15th child. That puts her one up on one sister, Mrs. Arley Simpkins, who has 14, and safely ahead of another sister, Mrs. Frank Adkins, who has 11. Another of the sisters has nine, still another six and two have four each. That's 63 for the seven sisters.

Traveling By Americans Reaches Record High

By CHARLES STAFFORD
AP Staff Writer

More Americans are traveling than ever before.

The travel industry estimates that by the end of the year the number of Americans who motored, sailed, flew, biked or hiked through the United States will reach 100 million, and 1½ million more will have done the same in foreign countries.

This year's appetite for travel has the industry wallowing happily in statistics like these:

1. Of the 54 million familes in the United States, 30 million have already or will take vacation trips.

2. The national vacation budget is about 15 billion dollars a year for domestic travel.

3. More than 1,400,000 Americans went overseas in 1958 and spent 2½ billion dollars. This year the number is running 7 to 10 per cent higher.

Camping out is the newest rage in domestic vacations. Elmer Jenkins, director of the American Automobile Assn.'s National Touring Department, says requests for camping itineraries have increased 85 per cent in the last five years.

Travel to national parks is running more than 8 per cent above last year. Use of state parks is up anywhere from 10 to 25 per cent.

"The West is crawling with campers," says an observant Oklahoma City newspaperman who took his family on a camping vacation this summer for the first time.

He feels two things are bringing about this "great return to nature."

"One is economic," he says, "for a family of four like mine it takes a minimum of $40 a day to travel. Knock off $12 to $15 a night for a motel and you can go a lot farther.

"But the biggest reason for the camping rage, I think, is a nostalgic need for the family to do something together."

It took about $150 to outfit this man's family with a tent, sleeping bags, stove, air mattresses and the other equipment. The going rate for a camp site at a state park is $1 a night. The park usually furnishes wood, toilet facilities and, in some cases, showers.

The camping rage apparently hasn't hurt the resort areas.

Atlantic City is experiencing its best business year since the end of World War II. Collections of the city's 3 per cent luxury tax, a reliable barometer of business conditions, totaled $823,523 through Aug. 10 compared with $663,151 for the same period last year.

Local Chairmen Point Out Attractiveness Of Bond As Investment

Never before have United States Savings Bonds been so attractive to investors and small savers alike, F. Osborne Elliott and Arthur J. French, co-chairmen of the Morgan county Savings Bond committee, said Saturday in commenting on the one-half per cent increase in interest rates on old and new Series E and H Savings Bonds.

"Forty million people automatically benefit from the recent legislation passed by Congress," said Mr. Elliott and Mr. French, "because that many hold outstanding bonds in the amount of $42.6 billion. For the first time, the hike in rates applies to old series E and H Savings Bonds, as well as those being bought currently. So, it will be to the advantage of most bond owners to hold onto their old bonds, thus automatically receiving the benefit of the increase."

The new law does two things: (1) it provides that all Savings Bonds bought on and after June 1 draw 3¾ per cent interest when held to maturity, and (2) it increases by at least one-half of one per cent the interest return on all outstanding E and H bonds, regardless of their age, for the period from June 1, 1959, to their maturity. In addition, the Treasury has promised a 10-year extension privilege for all E bonds, both old and new.

"We cannot emphasize too strongly the fact that every person who owns an E or H bond benefits from the new rate, without having to do anything about it," the local chairmen continued. "We would therefore encourage the public to do two things: keep holding their old bonds, and keep on buying the new ones. This is the finest Savings Bonds package ever offered."

Calhoun County Woman, Daughter Suffer Injuries

JERSEYVILLE— Mrs. Edward Schuman and her daughter, Miss Janet L. Schuman, of Kampsville were brought by Jacoby Brothers ambulance to the Jersey Community hospital about 4 o'clock Wednesday afternoon suffering from injuries received in an automobile accident five and a half miles west of Jerseyville on Route Number 16.

The car figuring in the accident is a 1956 Chrysler, two door, driven by Miss Janet L. Schuman, 17 years of age.

State Trooper Arthur Edward Kahl of Greenfield handled the accident and his report indicated that the accident occurred when Janet L. Schuman endeavored to pass a truck hauling crushed rock which was also proceeding toward Jerseyville.

The report indicated that the truck was following a slow driver operating a vehicle just ahead, and the operator of the truck started to pull out to pass the slow moving vehicle about the same time that Miss Schuman was starting to pull around the truck. The truck driver noting the oncoming car of Miss Schuman swung back into his former lane of traffic, and Miss Schuman lost control of her car which skidded some 200 feet before turning over and rolling several times.

Mrs. Schuman suffered shock, a cut on the lower left leg, laceration of the right foot, and left side of the nose, contusion of the right knee, and injury to the left elbow and right hip. She remained a patient at the hospital.

Miss Schuman suffered lacerations of the left knee and heel. She was released following closing of the wounds with sutures.

That evening, eight year old Michael Schuman, a grandson of Mrs. Edward Schuman, was brought to the local hospital for treatment of a scalp laceration.

He was visiting at the home of his grandmother, Mrs. William Abbott when he ran into an angle iron and split his scalp open. Many sutures were required to close the laceration. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Schuman of Jerseyville.

Jersey County Sales Tax Effective Oct. 1

JERSEYVILLE — The county sales tax goes into effect in Jersey county October 1st. At its September meeting, the Jersey County Board of Supervisors passed the County Retailer's Occupational Tax resolution authorizing the State of Illinois to collect an additional one half cents upon sales of tangible personal property at retail in the unincorporated areas of Jersey county, in keeping with legislation passed this year by the General Assembly.

The one half cent sale tax will be collected in the same manner as the municipal sales tax. However, the county sales tax revenue will be sent directly by the state to the General Fund of the county while those sales made in the municipalities will continue to accrue to the general fund of the municipalities.

Delivery truck merchants will designate the place of sale as incorporated or unincorporated. The merchant will then report to the State the total of those sales made in the two areas and pay the tax accordingly.

The most of the merchants places of business are the actual business sites and if located in the unincorporated areas of Jersey county, one half cent of each dollars sale will go eventually into the county general fund. This will affect business situated in Nutwood, Kemper, Dow, Delhi, Newbern, Rosedale, Lockhaven and McClusky as well as in the rural areas.

Three Guest Lecturers To Visit MacMurray

Vance Packard, author of the best-selling "The Hidden Persuaders," will be one of three guest lecturers at MacMurray College this year.

He will lecture Wednesday evening, Oct. 14, at 8 o'clock in Ann Marshall Orr auditorium. The lecture is open to the public, with an admission fee of $1.00. Two remaining speakers will appear at 11 a.m., in Annie Merner Chapel to make addresses that will be admission free.

They are Felix Greene, a British-born businessman resident in America who has recently returned from an extensive tour of Communist China; and the Fordham Flash himself, baseball's Frankie Frisch.

Greene, who is reputedly an excellent speaker, will talk on "Inside Red China Today." A trained observer of the international scene, he gives American lecture audiences their first authentic glimpse into the China of today under Communist rule.

A businessman in California for the past decade with long experience in public affairs in his native England and abroad, Greene felt the best way to truly evaluate the colossus of Asia was to move about freely in the cities and around the countryside.

His prolonged trip took him first to Hong Kong, and then to the mainland cities of Canton, Hangkob, Nanking, Hangchow, and Peking.

Packard, who is also author of "The Status Seekers," is a former newspaperman and staff writer for "The American," and "Collier's."

"The hidden persuaders" is a phrase that has become part of everyone's vocabulary due to Packard's best seller of that title on the psychological techniques used in advertising.

One of the most colorful diamond figures of all time, Frisch comes to MacMurray next spring. He piloted the famed St. Louis Cardinal gas-house gang of the early 1930's, managing them to a pennant and World Series championship in 1934. Later, he managed the Pittsburgh Pirates for seven years and the Chicago Cubs for two seasons.

Local Family Arrives In Africa

Word has been received by relatives here that Lt. (jg) and Mrs. Jerrold Wayne Omundson and son, Eric, have arrived safely in Kenitra, Africa for a 30-months tour of duty with the United States Naval Reserve.

The Omundsons sailed from New York City on the USS Butner, a ship operated by the Navy's Military Sea Transportation Service.

The voyage required seven days, with the point of disembarkation being Rota, Spain. From there the Omundsons flew to Port Lyautey in Morocco, where the Naval Air Station is located. At present they are living in the Regina Hotel in Kenitra until suitable living quarters can be secured. The population of Kenitra is made up of Frenchmen, Arabic Moroccans, and Americans. The people are friendly, and most of the natives speak several languages fluently.

Lt. Omundson is the son of Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Omundson of this city and formerly was a carrier for the Jacksonville Journal Courier.

Prior to enlisting in the Naval Air Reserves five years ago, he graduated from Jacksonville High School and attended Illinois College and the University of Montana.

He has been stationed in Pensacola, Florida; Corpus Christi, Texas; Brunswick, Georgia; and Lakehurst, New Jersey.

At the latter station he was in command of an airship in Squadron Three and in June received a citation from his commanding officer commending him for "outstanding performance of duty in connection with rescue operations following the crash of an airship at the United States Naval Air Station, Lakehurst, New Jersey, in May, 1959."

The citation further reads: "Despite extreme hazards of fire and explosion due to ruptured fuel tanks, you utterly disregarded the safety of your own life while aiding in the five hour rescue of your shipmates who were trapped within the wreckage.

"Your inaccessability of the crash, coupled with complete darkness and fog, severely handicapped your efforts to aid those buried beneath tons of wreckage.

"Your expert knowledge of the airship and probable location of survivors, tireless efforts, perseverance and extreme courage greatly facilitated recovery of personnel with a minimum loss of injury and life. Your actions are in keeping with the highest traditions of the Naval Service."

During this present tour of duty, Lt. Omundson will serve as navigation briefing officer and will be flying a seaplane rather than an airship.

Mrs. Omundson, formerly Frances Samoore, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Samoore of this city. She, too, is a graduate of Jacksonville High School and after attending Illinois College for two years, received the Bachelor of Science degree from Western Illinois University in 1956. She taught for two years in the Lakewood, New Jersey grade school and may do some teaching in Africa.

The Omundson family visited in Jacksonville last June and at that time a number of parties and family reunions were held in their honor.

Ten Years Ago Mao Set Up 'Chinese People's Republic'

By JOHN RODERICK
Associated Press Staff Writer

The Chinese Communist cave-capital of Yenan tottered in 1947 before the advancing armies of Chiang Kai-shek. The outlook seemed bleak for Red leader Mao Tze-tung and his ragged followers.

"You are withdrawing from Yenan in retreat. Have you given up? Does this mean the end of communism in China?" I asked Mao when I met him at the tiny Yen airstrip.

Mao, a doll-like figure in padded blue cotton patched at the elbows, looked over the hazy Shensi hills. "Mr. Roderick," he said with the faintest trace of a smile, "I invite you to visit us in Peiping two years from now."

The story of how Mao's armies whirled suddenly and launched the counteroffensive against Chiang Kai-shek which brought them to power is history now.

In less than two years, this son of a Hunan peasant and his cronies had exchanged their caves for sumptuous quarters under the blue and yellow tile roofs of the "Forbidden City" in Peiping, ancient home of emperors.

Today at 65 still undisputed master of the Chinese revolution, Mao prepares to celebrate the 10th anniversary of his Peoples Republic of China.

On Oct. 1, 1949, the Chinese Communists crowned 28 years of bitter revolutionary struggle and intrigue by formally becoming rulers of a fourth of the world's people.

Historians may well describe the years which followed as "The Mao Decade." They were years in which this moon-faced poet and man of action almost alone remade the face of Old China.

Ten years ago, the world scarcely knew how to pronounce Mao's name. Few had heard of the men in his immediate inner circle—Liu Shao-chi, his arid-faced heir apparent; Chu Teh, grandfatherly creator of the Red Army, or Premier Chou En-lai, longtime foreign minister and urbane executor of Red China's foreign policy.

In the first decade of power, this handful of strong-willed men united China, for a century the easy prey of foreign nations anxious to exploit her human and natural resources.

The communists then set about reshaping China into their version of a modern state.

They began by using the hangman, the jailer and the labor gang to stamp out the last opposition. Uncounted numbers went to the grave in the purges of those first years.

Then, they confiscated the executed landlords property and parceled it out to the peasants.

Having won their loyalty and the support by this gesture, they launched and completed the first five-year plan — which brought China back to its pre-war industrial level—and embarked in 1958 on the second.

But China could not advance into communism on the backs of 500 million land-owning peasants. The hand that gave ruthlessly took away and the grumbling peasants found themselves agricultural wage - earners in thousands of peasant cooperatives.

Still dissatisfied with production, Mao took the next revolutionary step in August, 1958. He turned the farmer into a facelsss servant of the state, making each a tiny human cog in 26,000 vast peasant communes run with the dull, clockwork efficiency of army battalions.

Two months ago, Premier Chou boasted that these severe measures, combined with a "great leap forward" in the factories and mines, would permit China to overtake the industrial might of Britain in the next 10 years.

He credited China's modern-day advance to the wisdom and doctrines of Karl Marx, the father of communism, and the Russian theorist, Lenin.

But the ironic truth is that a great Chinese emperor, Shih Huang - ti, had anticipated the methods and philosophy of Chinese Communism to an extraordinary degree 2,160 years before. Some observers feel Mao, a deep student of Chinese history, has used him, not Marx, as a model.

Builder of the Great Wall, unifier of China, dictator and orgnaizer of slave armies, the Marxism of Shih's day was called "legalism." It advocated controlled prices, nationalization of capital and state monopoly of trade.

Shih drove thousands of intellectuals into the work gangs, abolished ancestor worship, overthrew Confucianism, reformed the language, and set himself up as "father" of his people — events which have their blurred echoes in the China of today.

Shih boasted his dynasty would reign a thousand years. It collapsed in 15.

Today, a world grown anxious by the belligerency of the new rulers asks how long will their reign endure?

"Towards the end of the dynasty," the Communist history of the Shih period continues, "the inhuman exploitation and oppression of the peasants drove them to revolt and the dynasty was overthrown."

Stripped of almost all human freedom, forced to work from dawn to sunset, subsisting on a single meal of sweet potatoes a day, will China's peasants unfurl the banners of revolt as they did in Shih Huang-ti's day?

Grinning skulls cover the walls while the ceilings of the tomb feature designs made from the vertebrae and ribs. Each of the four burial vaults contains a graveyard with earth brought from Jerusalem.

Miss Emma Mae Leonhard then summarized "The College Woman and the Mass Media," a speech given at the AAUW national convention by Dr. Wilbur Schramm, Director of the Institute for Communication Research at Stanford University.

In this keynote speech it was pointed out that since we usually consider mass media as any popular method of communication, the means we use to speak to the large majority of people, this topic is especially vital today. We live in a world of expanding horizons. Mass communication has taken us out of the world of the pioneer woman in which horizons were physical horizons into a fast moving age of newspapers, radio, movies and television.

Miss Leonhard closed the talk by telling her story of the Seven R's to illustrate how schools today are trying to adjust students to the world of communications revolutions. The two R's, Reading and Writing, along with five little R's — Receiving, Relating, Reasoning, Rhyming and Rhythm—now make up the tools of living and learning in our modern world, the tools of our knowledge and power

HOG PRICES HOLD STEADY FOR 2ND WEEK IN ROW

CHICAGO (AP)—The range of butcher hog prices moved along very narrowly all week but finished steady to 15 cents higher as demand held up on active shipper buying.

The top price was $14.25 on four of the five days and $14.15 the other. The week's supply of 40,000 head was the same as for the previous week but offerings on the 12 major markets were the largest since June.

For the second successive week all grades of 190-290 lb weights sold within a 50-cent price spread.

The cattle supply of 48,000 head was slightly above the previous week and the largest of the year with the 25,000 on Monday the most liberal since May. At the end of the week about 1,200 steers and several loads and lots of heifers still were unsold from Thursday's run.

Prices held fairly steady through Wednesday but turned downward thereafter and closed as much as $1 lower on steers. Most heifer grades were steady to 50 cents lower.

Buyers noted that approximately 90 per cent of the cattle offerings over the past two weeks were slaughter steers and heifers grading upward from good.

Despite a much smaller sheep supply, spring slaughter lambs were $1.00-1.50 lower and ewes steady to 50 cents lower for the week.

Offerings were down about 20 per cent but they were predominantly spring lambs grading good and choice.

CAR RUNS OFF PAVEMENT

Murder Quiz Downed By Gangland Silence

NEW YORK (AP)—Gangland silence Saturday hid the motive for the gunshot slayings of big-time mobster "Little Augie" Pisano and the beautiful blonde wife of nightclub comedian Allan Drake.

Pisano and Mrs. Drake were shot in the head while riding in Pisano's Cadillac near La Guardia Airport in Queens late Friday night.

The shots apparently were fired from the back seat by two gunmen who escaped without leaving any clues.

Detectives sought to question national and local underworld figures.

They faced two handicaps. One was the tight-lipped tradition of the underworld. The other was that the rackets run by Pisano—real name Anthony Carfano—were so varied any number of rivals might have wanted him out of the way.

Pisano, 62, had been an underworld power for more than 30 years. He hobnobbed with racket figures such as Lucky Luciano and Frank Costello and once was a lieutenant to the notorious Al Capone.

Mrs. Drake, 32, the former Janice Hansen, was Miss New Jersey of 1944.

Her husband, who has been entertaining at a club in Washington, D.C., rushed back to New York.

Pisano and the blond were gunned down while he was driving, she at his side.

Detectives surmised that Pisano was shot because of some underworld dispute. Mrs. Drake was killed, they theorized, so she never could appear as a witness against them.

Friends said Pisano had been friendly with Mr. and Mrs. Drake for years and that the dinner date did not indicate any romance.

The fine response received by the workers in their solicitation indicated the awareness of the congregation of the need for the new center and appreciation of their cooperation and approval was voiced by the solicitors at the meeting.

Charles S. White, campaign chairman, presided at the informal meeting following the dinner and talks expressing thanks and gratitude for the success of their work were made by John G. Will Thompson, music composer of East Liverpool, Ohio, wrote both "Softly, Tenderly Jesus is Coming" and "There's a Great Day Coming."

Arenzville Legion, Auxiliary Hold Joint Installation

ARENZVILLE—The Legion and Community hall was the scene of impressive joint installation ceremonies for the new officers of the local American Legion Post No. 604, and American Legion Auxiliary Unit 604, for the current year.

The installation of officers was preceded by a bountiful potluck supper for Legionnaires, Auxiliary members, their families and guests. The invocation was given by Mrs. Olive Williams, Auxiliary chaplain.

Following the supper, the meeting was officially opened by the retiring commander, Wendell Peck, and the colors were advanced by George Manker and Harry Dufelmeier. After a brief business meeting, Mr. Peck turned the gavel over to Mrs. Joanne Peck, president of the Auxiliary, who thanked the members for their cooperation during the past year.

Mrs. Peck then called upon Mrs. Edna Iftner of Pittsfield, 20th District Director, who served as installing officer. Mrs. Iftner installed Mrs. Joanne Peck as president; Mrs. Marian Manker, first vice-president; Mrs. Helen Wessler, second vice-president; Mrs. Eloise Knight, treasurer; Mrs. Olive Williams, chaplain; Mrs. Lois Stock, secretary; Mrs. Katie Lutkehus, historian; Mrs. Freda Hierman, sergeant-at-arms. Strike Began July 15—Now Hurting Many that for the first time since the strike began manufacturing cutbacks accounted for more than half of the layoffs in steel-related industries.

The total number of secondary layoffs, estimated at 160,000 nationwide, increased by 9,200 in the first two weeks of September in 31 major steel-producing and steel consuming areas surveyed.

Most of the strike-related layoffs so far have been in nonmanufacturing industries, principally transportation, construction and mining.

To Mid-October

The department said employers in most of the 31 areas surveyed reported that steel stocks are adequate to maintain employment near current levels through the end of this month but that "widening difficulties" are anticipated by mid-October.

There has been increasing speculation that the government will seek a Taft-Hartley Act injunction to halt the strike by that time. But Mitchell made no reference to this in releasing the Labor Department's latest survey of the situation.

The labor secretary said he would recommend that President Eisenhower invoke the Taft Hartley Oct's 80-day cooling off period provision if the strike continues into October and creates a national emergency.

Mitchell conferred Saturday with Joseph F. Finnegan, chief federal mediator. There was no indication of any decisions reached Finnegan has indicated that if and when the talks are resumed they may be shifted to some city other than New York.

NURSEMAIDS

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Pixie, a dachshund, gave birth to seven pups and a non-stop bunking party.

An infection prevented Pixie from nursing her pups. Katy Hall, 13, the owner, enlisted the aid of six girl friends to gather at the Hall home every three hours to help feed the pups with nursing bottles.

The bunking party developed because 3 a.m. and 6 a.m. feedings were necessary.

Cadets Trounce Boston, 44-8

WEST POINT, N.Y. (AP) — Army rolled over Boston College, 44-8 Saturday on four touchdown passes by Joe Caldwell and the hard running of Bob Anderson, Steve Waldrop and Don Bonko.

It was Sale Hall's debut as Army football coach. Earl Blaik retired in midwinter after 18 brilliant years.

This looks like another strong Army team. Conspicuous in the offense was the lonely end, originated by Blaik and effectively played by Bill Carpenter.

After an initial period of fumbling, Army settled down to its task in the season's opener with grim precision.

Braves Stop Phils, 3-2; Los Angeles Trounced By Cubs

Spahn Lifts Milwaukee Into First Place Tie

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Warren Spahn, Milwaukee's "Old Dependable," boosted the Braves into a first-place tie with Los Angeles Saturday in the torrid National League race. Spahn's 3-2 victory over Philadelphia's Robin Roberts in a tight pitching duel pulled the Braves even with one game to go.

When the Dodgers absorbed a 12-2 pasting at the hands of the Chicago Cubs, Milwaukee regained the ground it had lost Friday night in dropping the series opener to the last-place Phillies.

Spahn's victory, No. 267 of his illustrious career, set a new record for left-handers in the National League.

While the Braves were easing out this thinly cut decision over the last-place Phils, the Dodgers lost 12-2 to the Chicago Cubs.

San Francisco still had a chance to tie if they won their last three games and the Braves and Dodgers lose Sunday.

Spahn allowed only two hits in the first five innings but they were home runs by Gene Freese and Wally Post. An unearned run had pulled the Braves even in the fourth on a wild peg by Freese.

As the game wore on, the 38-year-old Spahn seemed to get stronger. Although he was pulled out of a deep jam in the seventh by fine defensive play and saved again by a nice play by shortstop Johnny Logan, he finished with a flourish.

After Milwaukee finally crashed through for a third run off Roberts in the last of the eighth, Spahn struck out both Eddie Bouchee and Post and made Freese fly out.

Singles by Eddie Mathews and Hank Aaron, a sacrifice bunt by Joe Adcock and an intentional walk to Lee Maye loaded the bases against Roberts in the eighth. The tie-breaking run scored as Bobby Avila forced Maye at second, Mathews scoring.

Thus the sizzling race came right down to the final day of the season. The Braves finish at County Stadium against the Phillies and the Dodgers wind up at Chicago. If the teams are tied after Sunday's games they will start a best-of-three playoff Monday afternoon in Milwaukee.

Illinois Faces Army First Time Since 1948

CHAMPAIGN, Ill.—Two schools with great football traditions, Illinois and Army, will add a seventh game Saturday to one of college football's hardest-hitting, most exciting football rivalries. An Illini win would even the series, since the Cadets have onw three games and Illinois two. One game ended in a tie.

Saturday's encounter is the first between the two teams since 1948, when the Illini took on the Cadets before a capacity Memorial Stadium crowd of 71,119. Coach Earl "Red" Blaik's Army team overpowered Illini for almost three quarters and gained a 26-0 lead.

However, near the end of the third period Lyle Button recovered a Cadet fumble, putting Illinois on the Army 26-yard line. Walt Kersulis' leaping catch of a pass from Bernie Krueger got the ball to the two-yard line, from where the Illini pushed over for a touchdown.

With Krueger passing and Kersulis and Tony Klimek catching, Illinois scored two more touchdowns in thef inal quarter, but Army still won 26-21. The Cadets had the ball on the Illinois' one-yard-line as the game ended.

In 1947, 65,000 fans watched the two teams battle to a scoreless tie in New York's Yankee Stadium. The Illini were favored, but Army entered the game with 30-game unbeaten string.

Defense predominated. Illinois' best chance to score came in the closing seconds of the first half, but a field goal attempt by Don Maechtle—after a bad pass from center—was unsuccessful. Army's only sustained march, for 40 yards, ended with a fumble on Illinois' 39-yard line. The favored Illini gained 212 yards to Army's 162.

Illinois' two wins over the Army were in the friendly confines of Memorial Stadium, 7-0 in 1934 and 17-7 in 1929. In between, the Cadets defeated the Illini twice on foreign soil, 13-0 at Yankee Stadium in 1930, and 6-0 at Cleveland in 1933.

Everything happened in 1929, in the series inaugural. Midway through the first period of that game Doug Mills, now Illinois athletic director, kisked a 24-yard field goal. The Illini marched back to the Army three in the same quarter, and the first weird incident occurred. The Cadets held, but their Johnny Murrell, punting from his end zone, booted the ball almost straight up in the air. The ball hit on the Army 20, bounced to the eight, and Illini center Ed Kawal grabbed it to race across for a touchdown. Frosty Peters converted for a 10-0 Illinois lead.

Army swept back to Illinois' 15 and was striking for a touchdown when Arnie Wolgast intercepted a lateral by Murrell and ran 80 yards to score. Peters converted for a 17-0 edge, and the Illini withstood Chris Cagle's passes to win 17-7.

Driving rain and mud greeted the two teams in Memorial Stadium in 1934 and the breaks gave Illini a 7-0 win. End Gene Dykstra picked up an Army punt, blocked by Ken Nelson, and ran to the Cadet 14. Crain Portman went over two plays later, with the game only 10 minutes old. Les Lindberg made the point, then held Army at bay with his fine punting.

Ray Stecker's seven-yard end run and his 45-yard dash with an intercepted pass won for the Army, 13-0, in 1930. Ray Eliot was at right guard for Illinois that day. In 1933, Joe Stancock's one-yard plunge brought Army a 6-0 decision, as the Cadets tightened late in the game to stop Illinois after Jack Beynon had completed seven of eight passes.

The complete series:
1929—Illinois 17, Army 7
1930—Army 13, Illinois 0
1933—Army 6, Illinois 0
1934—Illinois 7, Army 0
1947—Illinois 0, Army 0 (tie)
1948—Army 26, Illinois 21

CLYDE LOVELLETTE

FASTEST DRAW IN THE WEST

By JACK KISER

They faced each other across the room, the air pregnant with tense drama.

"I warned you once," Chris Colt hissed, flexing his fingers as they inched toward his six shooter. "This is it. Draw!"

Clyde Lovellette crouched at the knees and grinned mirthlessly. Suddenly two hands became blurs and two guns cleared leather. But Big Clyde was faster. He had cocked and fired before Mr. Colt .45 could get off a shot.

Clyde Lovellett, an easy-going cowpoke who rides the range for St. Louis, grinned when he recalled the incident. "Those TV cowboys," he said, "they're not so fast. I can beat any of them on the draw."

Hub Reed unfolded his 6-7 frame from a nearby chair and moseyed over. "It's true," he said. "I've seen Big Clyde match draws with them all, and they haven't beaten him yet. Why, he's so fast you can't even time him with a stop watch."

Big Clyde nodded solemnly. "It's true, pardner," he said. "I'm fast as greased lightnin'."

The puzzled visitor, figuring that his leg was being pulled, countered with a crack about Lovellette's reputation as one of the top gunners in the NBA.

"No," Reed shook his head. "I'm serious. This is on the level. Tell him, Clyde."

And Lovellette immediately launched into a story of the strangest hobby any basketball player ever had. That of the fast draw.

"I've always been interested in guns," Lovellette began. "Ever since I was a kid. Well, I got to watching these westerns on TV, and I knew those characters weren't too good with the gun. I'd seen real cowboys when I was playing AAU ball down in Bartlesville, Oklahoma. I knew I could be better than them.

"About two years ago," Big Clyde continued, "I started fooling around with the fast draw. I got me a couple of guns—a .22 on a .45 frame and a .38 on a .45 frame—and a pair of low cut holsters. But I didn't get serious about it until this season."

That was when Lovellette was traded to St. Louis. His roomie is Reed, a lanky, drawling country boy from Oklahoma and a perfect running mate for Big Clyde. The first thing these two did when they moved into the George Washington Hotel was to order a full-length mirror. And for hours on end they would stand before it, practicing the fast draw.

"Hub's getting pretty good," Lovellette said. "He's catching on fast."

"But I'm still no competition for you," Reed countered. Then, turning to the visitor, he added, "I'll tell you how fast he is. A stop watch is too slow to time him. It takes him less than half a second to draw and fire."

And how are Reed and Lovelette going to capitalize on their new skill?

"Well, I'd like to get on TV," Lovellette says. "I figure I could do a job there. I'm taller than Matt Dillon, and I can play basketball better than Chuck Connors (the ex-Royals player now starring in 'The Rifleman'). That ought to mean something.

"And besides," he added, "Hub here would be a perfect sidekick. Another Chester. He has the drawl and he makes coffee that would curl your teeth. All I've got to do is break his leg so he'll have a limp."

And a TV producer would have any trouble outfitting the pair. Both have cowboy outfits, complete with boots and 10-gallon hats. And Lovellett has a pair of quarter horses he picked up from the famous King Ranch of Texas.

"I'm going to take a correspondence course in guitar pickin'," Lovellette adds. "I don't have much of a voice but I can yodel. About the only thing against me is my face. I'm just too ugly to be a leading man."

The visitor nodded in agreement without cracking a smile. You don't want to rile the fastest gun in the NBA.

Referees, please note.

Lovellett will be playing in the St. Louis Hawks - Syracuse Nationals game October 14 in the JHS Bowl.

THINK IT OVER

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Pima County Superior Court Judge John F. Molloy asked Reynaldo P. Fraijo if he was ready to be sentenced.

Fraijo nodded "yes." Molloy told Fraijo he was going to be sent to prison for two years on a charge of forgery.

"If you object to waiting a week, I'll sentence you now. Would you rather wait a week while I think it over?"

Fraijo quickly answered, "I'll wait."

Cubs Hand Dodgers Crushing Defeat, 12-2

By JOE MOOSHIL
Associated Press Sports Writer

CHICAGO (AP) — The Chicago Cubs, playing the role of spoilers again, dealt Los Angeles a crushing 12-2 defeat Saturday and dropped the Dodgers into a first-place tie with Milwaukee.

While the Cubs were scoring 12 times in the first four innings, Milwaukee eked out a 3-2 victory over Philadelphia. That left the Dodgers and Braves tied for first place with only one game to play.

Milwaukee closes its season at home Sunday with the last-place Phillies while the Dodgers again must contend with the hard-hitting Cubs who stymied San Francisco's pennant chances earlier in the week.

The Cubs pounded out 16 hits and gave right-hander Dave Hillman a 12-run cushion to work on. Before the Dodgers could score on Hillman with a pair of runs in the sixth, the Cubs manhandled starter Johnny Podres and a string of relievers.

The Dodgers will send Roger Craig (10-5) against the Cubs' Bob Anderson (12-12) Sunday in a battle of right-handers.

The Cubs opened their assault in the second inning when Bobby Thomson, a Dodger destroyer from way back, singled with one out. Art Schult singled and Al Dark homered.

Podres, the first of six Dodger pitchers, appeared to have settled down in the third when both Tony Taylor and George Altman struck out.

But before Altman made the third out in the inning, the Cubs scored six runs and disposed of Podres and reliever Chuck Churn.

With two out in the third, Lee Walls singled and Ernie Banks was hit by a pitch. Thomson singled Walls home and Schult greeted Churn with a run-scoring single. Dark walked to load the bases and Cal Neeman walked to force in a run.

Clem Labine took over the pitching chores but Hillman singled for two more runs and Taylor singled home another before Altman flied out to end the inning.

The Cubs hammered across three more runs in the fourth inning.

New QB Leads Irish Past Tar Heels, 28-8

By WILLIAM J. CONWAY
Associated Press Staff Writer

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP)—Don White, a quarterback who moved up from the reserves, led Notre Dame to a 28 to 8 victory over North Carolina Saturday.

It was the first game for the Fighting Irish of Notre Dame under their new coach, Joe Kuharich. His squad showed a varied, hard-charging offense. The key man in the attack was White, a 21-year old senior from Haverhill, Mass., who filled in at quarterback for the injured star George Izo. White performed his stand-in role with skill and poise.

The question uppermost in the minds of the Irish fans was: "What can we expect under the new coaching regime?"

They soon had their answer.

Late in the first quarter Notre Dame recovered a fumble on the North Carolina 24 and whizzed to its first touchdown in four plays. The big gainer was a 19 yard pass from Don White to Bob Scarpitto. Scarpitto scored on the next play on a 2 yard run.

A short punt gave the Irish the ball on the Tar Heel 29 in the second period. On the fourth play in the series Jim Crotty loped around his left end for 19 yards and a TD.

Another short punt put Notre Dame in gear on the North Carolina 30 later in the same period. Five plays, including a 15 yard pass from White to George Sefcik, put the ball on the 3 and Crotty took it over on a plunge.

Notre Dame, which used the T formation with variations in its first half offensive touchdown drives, turned the scoring over to an alert defense in the last half.

Monty Stickles, a tall end, blocked Henry Clement's punt behind the goal line and the ball bounded out of the end zone for a safety.

Then Ray Ratkowski intercepted a pass by Wade Smith and galloped 43 yards for a TD.

North Carolina put on a sustained 65-yard drive late in the fourth period. The big booster was a 29-yard pass from Ray Farris to Don Lotz. Moyer Smity plunged the final yard for the TD.

Notre Dame rolled up 223 yards rushing and 86 passing. North Carolina was held to 100 yards on the ground and 60 in the air in a game played in intermittent rain.

Spartans Upset By Texas A&M, 9-7

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) Texas A & M made an early lead stand up and upset Michigan State 9-7 Saturday.

Michigan State had won 15 straight against non-Big Ten foes.

The Texas A. & M. visitors had a 9-0 lead at the intermission and allowed Michigan State only a single touchdown in the third period.

Quarterback Charlie Milstead threw himself from the one for a Texas A. & M. first period touchdown. A fumble set up the score.

Another MSU fumble on the 20 set the stage for Randy Sims 31-yard field goal to give the Aggies their halftime advantage.

Michigan State went 66 yards to score its lone touchdown after the second half kickoff. Fullback Blanche Martin and halfback Herb Adderley ripped off most of the running yardage, and a 20-yard Tommy Wilson pass to Fred Arbanas keep the push going.

Martin bucked over from the one and Art Brandstatter kicked the extra point.

Michigan State missed three vital scoring chances in the second quarter. The Spartans once got down to the A & M 10 but were stopped there when a fourth down pass try went wild.

Brandstatter missed on two field goal tries—one a 45-yarder and the other a 26-yarder.

SEYMOUR, Ind. (AP) — Harold Sweany cast a line into the White River and gaped in surprise he hauled in seven fish in one strike. Sweaney then discovered he had hooked a stringer of fish apparently caught upstream by some angler who then lost them.

Tennessee Snaps Auburn's Long Unbeaten String, 3-0

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—Tennessee stunned Auburn, the nation's third-ranking team, 3-0 Saturday and snapped college football's longest unbeaten streak at 24 games.

A 20-yard field goal by end Cotton Letner provided the Vols margin of victory before a sun-splashed crowd of 40,500.

Tennessee, outweighed about 20 pounds per man, put up such a stubborn defense that the favored Tigers never penetrated the Vol 20.

Auburn got to the 20 only once. That threat was halted by safetyman Bill Majors' pass interception — one of two Majors made at vital stages of the bruising game.

Another interception by Vol fullback Neyle Sollee on Tennessee's 19 halted Auburn's only other real scoring threat in the dying moments. The Vols ran out the clock.

Tennessee's drive for its game-winning field goal came midway the second period after linebacker Ken Sadler recovered halfback Jimmy Pettus' fumble on the Auburn 44.

After two short line gains, Majors faked a pass and sprinted 21 to the Tiger 24. Two plays later, Majors passed nine yards to end Mike Lo Sorsa on the 9. Auburn stiffened and held on its 3. Letner booted a 20-yard field goal at a sharp angle.

Clemson Blanks Virginia, 47-0

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va. (AP)—Clemson's fifth-ranked football team trampled Virginia 47-0 in an Atlantic Coast Conference football game Saturday.

Only 80 seconds of the opening period had elapsed when the savage-tackling Tigers showed who was boss on a 54-yard scoring pass from quarterback Harvey White to halfback Bill Mathis.

Quarterback Lowndes Shingler's 48-yard touchdown pitch to end Ed Bost boosted the Clemson margin to 14-0 moments later and after that it was all downhill for the Cavaliers, now losers in their last 19

Harry Grayson's SCOREBOARD

By HARRY GRAYSON
NEA Sports Editor

CHICAGO — (NEA) — With the long end of the swag in the bank, the White Sox didn't seem to care who represented the National League in the World Series.

The Singles Wonders banked on their center defense — Sherman Lollar catching, excellent pitching, Luis Aparicio and Nellie Fox around second base and Jim Landis in center field.

This central committee is called by such a qualified judge as Phil Rizzuto the finest that baseball has seen since the peak playing days of Joe DiMaggio with the Yankees in the late 1930's. That central command had Bill Dickey behind the bat and Joe Gordon working with Little Scooter Rizzuto around second.

If the Singles Wonders had a choice of World Series opponents it was the Dodgers only because 90 odd thousand customers can be packed in the Los Angeles Coliseum.

Al Smith alone preferred the Giants. The outfielder wanted to even the score with Willie Mays. Smith, you see, was an Indian when the New York Giants took four straight from the Cleveland club in 1954.

Throwing out the seating capacity in Los Angeles, the Singles Wonders no noubt would have elected the Braves as their foes.

As one of them put it, why not play in Chicago in the afternoon and Milwaukee at night and have it over within two or three days? Besides, the Braves have been National League champions for two years and the Singles Wonders are better acquainted with them as the result of spring exhibition games. Only the Singles Wonders who played in the All-Star Games would know a Giant or a Dodger from a lamp post.

Regardless of the National League entry, the Singles Wonders felt that they would keep right on running.

"If American League catchers couldn't throw us out, how do they expect National League catchers who haven't seen us to do it? asked Nellie Fox, speaking for the entire party.

Imperturbable Ol Lopez refused to talk about anybody but the Singles Wonders, his kind of team whether Owner Bill Veeck likes it or not.

"We had Bill Norman watching the Braves and Hollis Thurston the Giants and odgers," said Senor Lopez. "We won't go into the Series blind, especially with Ted Kluszewski at first base after years in the National League. Even if I didn't think so, I'd tell you we could beat any National League club, and I really believe we can. The White Sox are a vastly under-rated and a highly intelligent club, even if they do say that our attack is 50 years old."

Getting back to the Singles Wonders' central command, Phil Rizzuto says:

"Aparicio is the greatest shortstop I ever saw. As extraordinary as it is, this White Sox straight-through-the-middle department excels that of the old Yankees only at shortstop. Aparicio has the arm that I lacked for going into the hole."

That's a rare compliment coming from Phil Rizzuto, who for years was the little guy they rightfully said would have to wear out before the Yankees would stub their toes.

Indiana's Sophomores Beat Fightless Illini

By DALE BURGESS

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (AP) —Indiana hauled the cover off a great crop of sophomores Saturday and defeated a fumbling Illinois team 20-0 in the Big Ten football opener for both teams. Rain poured all afternoon.

Tailback Ted Smith knocked Illinois off balance with a 51-yard runback of the opening kickoff, scored 10 plays later from the Illini one and then let the sophomores strut.

Willie Hunter, a 195-pound tailback, plowed 16 yards the first time he got the ball and tallied Indiana's second touchdown from the Illini 7 at the start of the second quarter.

John Henry Jackson, another sophomore tailback, passed 18 yards to junior Earl Faison for the Hoosiers' last touchdown.

Ron Miller kicked extra points on the first and third touchdowns but missed on the middle one. He had to boot the first one from the 28-yard line after a Hoosier penalty.

Illinois lost the ball five times on fumbles and twice on interceptions. Indiana never gave up the ball except to punt, and it used the quick kick to deadly advantage.

Hunter got off one quick kick that went for 63 yards. He recovered an Illinois fumble that led to his touchdown and picked off another that was dropped after the whistle.

Although Illinois had a miserable day in the mud, it also showed two good sophomore prospects in quarterback Mel Myers of Dallas, Tex., and John Counts, a hard-running halfback from New Rochelle, N.Y.

A pass interception by Lautar and a fumble ended Illinois' two best drives at the Indiana 15 and 18, both in the third quarter.

Indiana's 18 - yard touchdown pass was the only one completed, but it tried only four. Illinois completed 8 of 20 for 116 yards. The Illini wound up with 262 yards from scrimmage to the Hoosiers' 199, but made too many of them in their own territory.

Sword Dancer In Close Victory

NEW YORK (AP) — Sword Dancer moved up along the rail in the final yards Saturday and overhauled Hillsdale to narrowly win the $109,800 Woodward Stakes at Aqueduct.

Round Table finished third in the 1½-mile race and Inside Tract, the only other starter, was fourth.

Eddie Arcaro rode Sword Dancer, the 3-year-old champion, in the race that brought together the three top horses now in action.

Sword Dancer, only 3-year-old in the thriller, was clocked in 2:04 2-5 as he won by a head. Round Table was another length and three quarters behind. Inside Tract was 5 lengths back of Round Table.

The older horses carried 126 pounds, Sword Dancer, 120.

Missouri Stuns Michigan, 20-15

By DAVE DILES
Associated Press Sports Writer

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — Missouri scored in the last two seconds and stunned Michigan 20-15 Saturday, marching 78 yards after the Wolverines had victory all but locked up with a desperation field goal.

Second string quarterback Bob Haas leaped over the middle for the winning touchdown after his 36-yard pass to end Danny Larose got the invading Tigers to the Michigan two-yard line.

Moments before, John Halstead kicked a 32-yard field goal that got Michigan in front for the first time.

Halstead himself set up the field goal by recovering a fumble at the Missouri 23.

Missouri, beaten 19-8 by Penn State in its opener last week, held a 14-6 lead until the final period was more than half over. Then a couple of breaks went against the Tigers enabling Michigan to make it close.

Brad Myers made a leaping catch of Stan Noskin's for 35 yards, and Michigan got 12 more yards on an interference call at the Missouri 10. Bennie McRae skipped over on the next play, but for the second time, Noskin's passing attempt for two extra points fizzled.

Missouri fumbled on the second play after the kick off and Halstead's recovery and subsequent field goal had the Wolverines all set for a victory celebration.

Ohio State Slips Past Duke, 14-13

By FRITZ HOWELL
Associated Press Sports Writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio State's ground - eating Buckeyes were forced into the airways Saturday to pull out a 14-13 victory over Duke's Blue Devils in an intersectional game.

The defeat wrecked Duke's tradition of never having lost to a Big Ten team. After Ohio State had scored on its first attempt, going 59 yards in eight plays to send sophomore halfback Bob Ferguson in for a score, the game was a drab affair until the explosive fourth quarter when Duke scored twice and Ohio once.

The Buckeyes, who seldom use an aerial attack, won the game with 1:51 to play on a 23-yard pass from second string quarterback Tom Matte to second string end Charles Bryant. After Duke had gone ahead 13-7 with about four minutes to play Ohio marched 64 yards in nine plays for the winner. The score came on a fourth down do-or-die pass after Matte had hit Bryant for 16 yards and Jim Herbstreit for 15.

Wisconsin Trips Stanford, 16-14

MADISON, Wis. (AP)—Wisconsin's highly touted football machine combined bruising power and alertness for a 16-14 victory over Stanford today in the mud.

Fullback Tom Weisner scored two touchdowns on short line smashes and Karl Holzwarth booted a 26-yard field goal as the Badgers launched their 1959 campaign.

After Weisner's second touchdown, on a four-yard slant off left tackle in the third period, Stanford broke into the scoring column on the brilliant passing of All-American candidate Dick Norman.

The slick quarterback lobbed a high pass to Chris Burford for a 54-yard scoring play at the nine-minute mark of the third quarter.

Then, with the rain pouring so heavily it resembled snow, Norman directed a 72-yard touchdown march in the closing minutes, Fullback Skip Face capped the advance by skirting left end from two yards out.

Wisconsin's first touchdown came after recovery of a fumble. A pickoff of a fumble in midair by Dale Hackbart started the drive that ended with Holzwarth's field goal. The second touchdown was pushed across after Weisner stole the ball from Burford who had just taken a pass from Norman.

Slippery Field Halts Any Serious Drives

EUREKA — An inspired Eureka College eleven battled Illinois College on even terms here Saturday on a very wet and soggy field in the highlight of the annual "Pumpkin Festival."

Both teams were handicapped by the 40-mile-per-hour winds and the rain, which fell in buckets-full in the final quarter. Neither team got any big scoring drives started due to fumbles. Joe Brooks' lads fumbled seven times but recovered five of their own bobbles.

The Blueboy pass defense was much improved as Eureka completed only one flip in seven tries good for 14 yards. Illinois held the upper hand in net yards rushing, 115-21.

Rudolph Garners 3rd Round Lead

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Youthful Tennessean Mason Rudolph sank a wedge shot from 40 yards out on the 15th hole Saturday and finished with a 67 to take the third-round lead in the $40,000 Gate Golf Championships with 206 strokes.

Rudolph's great shot for an eagle on the 497-yard, par five hole provided the Clarksville, Tenn., pro with a one-stroke edge going into Sunday's final 18 holes.

Another youngster, 24-year-old Tommy Jacobs of Whittier, Calif., shot into second place with an 8-under-par 63. His total was 207.

At 208 came the second-round leader, Frank Stranahan, and last year's PGA champion, Dow Finsterwald. Stranahan slipped to a 73 Saturday while Finsterwald fired a 1-under par 70.

Jones Works On No-Hitter As Giants Win, 4-0

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Unpredictable Sam Jones of the still-hopeful San Francisco Giants pitched the second no-hitter of his major league career Saturday night, throttling the St. Louis Cardinals 4-0 for his 21st victory in a game halted in the eighth inning by high winds and heavy rains.

Jones' magnificent effort in the first game of a scheduled two-night doubleheader kept alive the Giants' thread-thin chance for a tie in the hot Natonal League pennant race.

The second game was postponed and reset as part of a doubleheader Sunday starting at 1 p.m. (CDT). There were two out in the eighth when play was interrupted.

Oklahoma got its name of "The Sooner State" from the land rush in 1893 into Cherokee Indian territory—"the sooner the settlers got started, the better chance for choice land."

Tech Gains 16-12 Win Over SMU

ATLANTA (AP)—Fred Braselton topped Don Meredith at his own game Saturday and passed Georgia Tech to a 16-12 football victory over Southern Methodist University.

The freckled quarterback from Corpus Christi, Tex., climaxed two 70-yard touchdown drives by throwing scoring passes to ends Jim Powell and Fred Murphy. On the second and decisive drive Braselton took the starch out of the Southwest Conference Methodists with a 33-yard run to the SMU 12. He might have gone all the way but lost his shoe and slipped into a tackler's arms.

A conversion after the first touchdown and a fourth quarter 32-yard field goal, both by Tommy Wells, supplied the Tech victory margin over the sixth ranked Mustangs.

SMU almost pulled it out on the last play of the game when Frank Jackson grabbed a Tech punt at his five and raced 50 yards before Tech tackle Toby Deese, the last Yellow Jacket defender, knocked him out of bounds.

Meredith, hailed as one of the nation's greatest passers, gave a classy demonstration of his art by tossing scoring passes of 22 and 37 yards to halfbacks Jackson and Glynn Gregory.

Nebraska Bruises Minnesota, 32-12

By JIM KLOBUCHAR

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Nebraska feasted on Minnesota fumbles and boomeranging passes Saturday for a 32-12 victory behind the three-touchdown salvo of Clay White.

The Cornhuskers reduced the Gophers to jittery ineptness and turned Gopher mistakes into five touchdowns. In the process they wrecked the heralded debut of Gopher sophomore quarterback Sandy Stephens, who fumbled four times and had a pass intercepted.

White scored on runs of 34 and 4 yards and on a 3 yard pass from Harry Tolly. Pat Fischer and Tolly got the other Nebraska touchdowns.

Underdogs by 10 points, the Huskers spotted Minnesota a first period touchdown and then struck for two quick scores midway through the second period for a 13-12 halftime lead. White took over after intermission to score three times, his 34 yard scamper in the fourth period breaking the Gophers back.

Minnesota fumbled eight times and lost the ball on five occasions. They also had two passes intercepted that led to Nebraska touchdowns.

Although he pitched a 19-yard touchdown pass, scored on a 55-yard return of an intercepted pass and carried a kickoff 78 yards, Stephens had an unhappy day.

Two of his fumbles and one of his intercepted passes preceded Nebraska touchdowns. Another fumble was on the Nebraska 3.

Jacksonville A Success On Gridiron But A Flop On Gate Receipts

By STAN SPOTTS
Journal Courier Sports Editor

Financial receipts represent the success or failure of a business even as football statistics may be representative of a winning or losing coach. Yet, these two comparisons don't fit the situation at Jacksonville High School.

Financial reports show that football doesn't pay its own way at Jacksonville although the Crimsons, under coaches Bob Kraushaar and Al Rosenberger, have had more than their share of success on the gridiron.

Inclusive from 1954 through the first game of the 1959 season, the Crimsons have amassed 38 victories against five defeats and three tie games. Financially, the Crimsons have flopped at the gate because each season during this time they've shown a deficit. For the past three years, Jacksonville High has been undefeated and yet, they can't break even or show a little profit for untiring efforts.

In the 1959 opener, Eisenhower of Decatur handed Jacksonville its first setback in 32 starts. This outstanding record dates back to 1955 when the final four games of the campaign started the streak. Of the 31 starts before the opening loss, the Crimsons had annexed 29 wins, 24 of which were consecutive before a 13-13 tie with Jerseyville in 1958. The other tie was a 6-6 affair with Lanphier in 1955.

At the gate, Jacksonville suffered large deficits in 1954 and 1955. In the first of three undefeated campaigns in 1956, Jacksonville showed a loss of $321.80. In the second perfect season, they showed a balance of $3.04, which didn't begin to cover the 1954 and '55 deficits of $2,846.56. Last year was another losing battle with the receipts, $411.00.

If football doesn't pay its own way, how can schools continue such an expensive operation? Jacksonville school officials summed it up best—"The true value of athletics on a high school level isn't to make money but to provide a supervised program for the students to teach them sportsmanship, the importance of clean living, to impress upon them the desire to win and how to be gentlemen in accepting defeat. In general, these qualities create better citizens for our community."

The JHS coaches had 116 candidates report for fall drills. After the drop-outs, they are providing a program for 95 boys of which 40 are being groomed on varsity level. Since the average fan has no idea of what it costs per season to give out equipment to 95 players, here is a breakdown of equipment each player must have: head gear, shoulder pads, hip pads, thigh pads, knee pads, shoes, game pants, game jersey, practice pants, practice jersey, parka and chin strap. The total cost to outfit a player is around $140.00. There are other necessary items such as heat lamps, medication, insurance, and $125.00 per season for tape.

Here is a general run down which a coach's budget may call for each season: equipment, $1750.00; officials, $308.00; cleaning and repair, $729.00; transportation, $182; meals, $211.00; field utilities, $250.00; insurance, $375.00; police, $40.00; films, scouting, telephoning, $140.00. This represents a cost of $4,040.77. Maintenance and upkeep aren't included.

From this budget, the gate receipts plus the field rentals to the other local schools are subtracted. This is how the balance or deficit figure is [illegible] lot of the deficit is made up from the student general [illegible] fund. In most cases, basketball is the money maker and this holds true at Jacksonville High with an enrollment of 1100.

However, athletics aren't a losing cause at the local school. Sports pays its own way with basketball carrying the costs for non-admission sports such as wrestling, golf, tennis and track. Less expensive operations and more games explain basketball's profit power.

A first look would indicate television, Friday night store hours, or cost of living, cuts down attendance. Further investigation reveals there are other major factors for the lack of receipts. Scheduling is important. A winning or losing season designates a money winner. Most teams play a nine-game card, four at home and five on the road, or vice-versa. If your home games are early in the fall, usually there is a good turnout. In an early game last year, Jacksonville had a $1,000 gate (still small for the 20,400 population). But in their final home game early in November, paid admissions amounted to $336.00.

Coach Bob Kraushaar is serving his 16th year as head skipper at the Crimson helm and his charges have compiled an impressive overall 87 wins, 40 losses and six ties record. Since 1950, the mark has been 66 wins against 12 defeats and three ties.

As the record indicates, Jacksonville wasn't very successful prior to the 1950 season but they held their own at the gate. Of course, this was before the television era and the higher cost of living.

A record such as this merits more than a pat on the back. If the sport would pay its way, the Jacks could match this on the gridiron. So far, it's been too one sided.

Is there any solution to this dilemma Jacksonville and other schools go through each football season? Maybe there is no solution. The question is how much worse will it get? If the school officials say the true value of high school athletics isn't to make money then the old theory of 'money isn't everything' holds true.

Iowa Clobbers California, 42-12

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) — A mighty Iowa, striking by land and by air, smothered California 42-12 Saturday in a Rose Bowl replay that turned into another nightmare for the Bears.

Cal scored after two plays, a 56-yard pass from Larry Parque to Bob Wills and a 10-yard run by Grover Garvin.

The Hawkeyes then took over and steamrollered Coach Pete Elliott's team with an awesome display of running and passing before a crowd of 45,000 in sunny Memorial Stadium.

Olen Treadway and Wilburn Hollis did the Iowa throwing. Ray Jauch, Bob Jeter, Don Horn, Gene Mosley and John Brown did the running and catching. Ends Curt Merz, Don Norton and Jeff Langston also snagged passes from one end of the gridiron to the other.

Horn scored first on a 5-yard dive, winding up a 10-play, 71-yard drive. The plunging fullback scored again in the third quarter on a three-yard run.

Hollis, Brown and Mosley carried the load for the second score, Hollis running in from the one.

Jeter and Jauch, both troublesome to Cal in the 1959 Rose Bowl debacle, made hash of the Bear line Saturday. Jeter made the third Iowa touchdown on a four-yard dash in the second quarter.

On the next drive, Mosley ran for 20, Hollis hit him for 31 and again for a 5-yard touchdown heave.

Early in the fourth quarter, the Big Ten's 440-yard run champion, sprinted 60 yards to pay dirt without a hand laid on him.

Tom Moore kicked six Iowa conversions.

The Bears picked up a second touchdown in the third quarter when quarterback Wayne Crow romped 36 yards.

Thornton, Burton Pace One-Sided Rout Over Nation's No. 2 Team

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN
Associated Press Sports Writer

EVANSTON, Ill. (AP) — Dick Thornton's heady quarterbacking and passing, and Ron Burton's electrifying runs today charged up Northwestern for a shattering 45-13 defeat of Oklahoma, the nation's second-ranked football team.

It marked the worst Oklahoma drubbing under Coach Bud Wilkinson—the previous being a 34-13 setback by Texas in 1947, Wilkinson's first year.

Five Oklahoma regulars became violently ill two days before the game because of apparent food poisoning. All played most of today's game.

The second quarter of the nationally televised game before a capacity crowd of 50,000 was played in a near cloudburst.

In the curtain of rain that at times obliterated the field, both sides packed the game's highlights into the quarter.

Oklahoma scored a touchdown on a 45-yard thrust in 11 plays that cut Northwestern's lead to 13-7. The score came on a hoopla pass involving three of the five Sooner regulars stricken with food poisoning.

From the Northwestern 7, Bobby Boyd slipped a backward pass to Jim Carpenter, who tossed to Brewster Hobby in the end zone. Jim Davis, another of those who had been sick, booted the extra point.

Northwestern, rated No. 10, then scored twice to clamp a lid on the outcome with a 27-7 halftime bulge, spoiling Wilkinson's first venture against a Big Ten team since taking over at Oklahoma.

Halfback Burton slashed 62 yards for a touchdown. Later, Wayne Chamberlain recovered an Oklahoma fumble by Jackie Holt on the Sooners' 8. On the first play, Thornton threw a touchdown pass to Paul Yanke — a dripping, flurried figure in the end zone.

A Thornton run and a Thornton pass failed for the extra two points after each touchdown.

FAN BREEZES

BY STAN SPOTTS
Journal Courier Sports Editor

Word comes from Madison, Wis., that Merritt Norvell is producing good work for the Badgers in his freshman year. The only fault the Big Ten coaches find wrong is that Merritt tackles too low. They don't believe in the shoe-string tackle. Maybe Norvell's black eye bears out their theory. He's on their third team and scrimmages against the varsity. That isn't bad for a start. I hope he goes ahead and makes a name for himself. Maybe others will follow suit and give Jacksonville the football name it deserves.

—O—

I don't know how many local fans witnessed the 1919 World Series between the Chicago White Sox and the Cincinnati Redlegs. Glenn Ingels, a security officer at the State Hospital, reports he saw the 6th game of the series between Pat Moran's Reds and Kid Gleason's Pale Hose. Ingels didn't remember how he got from Mt. Sterling to Springfield but remembered riding the train from Springfield to Chicago. His dad, who was in the grocery business, bought the tickets through a salesman of a wholesale grocery house.

—O—

Ingels was an avid baseball fan at the age of 13 and recalled the great Sox team composed of Chick Gandil, 1st base Eddie Collins, 2nd base; Swede Risberg, SS; Buck Weaver, 3rd base, Happy Felsch, cf; Nemo Leibred, rf, and 'Shoeless' Joe Jackson, left field. The catcher was Ray Schalk and the pitcher, a little left hander, was Dickie Kerr. Kerr won the 6th game, 5-4. While too young to realize the seriousness of throwing a World Series, Ingels was impressed by the play of the Sox although several of the key players did not play their best. He said it was still a job for the Reds to win the Series.

—O—

Some local boys are making good in the Tuesday night Commercial League at Springfield. They are undisputed leaders with an eight win, one loss record. The keglers are Wally Baptist, Howard Arundel, Clarence Irvin, Jr., Frank Baptist and a Virden team member, Wayne Cox, who paces the team with a 187 average.

Giants Win First Game 4-0; Second Rained Out

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Powerful winds and heavy rains pounded Busch Stadium Saturday night, interrupting the San Francisco-St. Louis baseball game with two out in the top of the eighth and Sam Jones working on the second no-hitter of his career.

The Giants were leading 4-0 when time was called.

Jones kept Giants' hopes alive for a tie in the feverish National League pennant race, setting down the Cards without a hit through the first seven innings.

The Giants now trail the Los Angeles Dodgers and the Milwaukee Braves—in a dead heat for the National League lead—by 1½ games. They will have two to play while the Dodgers and Braves have one each to go Sunday.

The Giants' only hope is for both of the leaders to lost Sunday while San Francisco sweeps a pair from the Redbirds.

The 33-year-old Jones, in the seventh season of a major league pitching career, that includes a nine-inning no-hitter over Pittsburgh in 1955, walked two and struck out five in registering the first no-hitter over the Cards in 40 years.

His only lapses were walks to Joe Cunningham in the first and to Alex Grammas in the sixth.

Only one runner — Grammas—reached second as funnel clouds danced in the area and the storm raced toward Busch Stadium.

Jones had plenty of extra base support in notching his first victory since Sept. 12.

Willie Mays hit his 34th homer and Willie McCovey hit his 13th.

B-E Day October 15—

Jacksonville Teachers Plan Business Trips

B-E Day stands for "Business-Education Day," scheduled October 15 for District 117 teachers. It is an entire day set aside, in which a number of selected businesses—stores, manufacturers, banks, utilities, hotels and the like, invite the teachers of District 117 and local parochial schools to observe business and industry in operation.

Business firms would like teachers to become acquainted with the management, observe job opportunities for youth and see America's Free Enterprise System at work.

Valuable to Business

B-E Day provides a means to the businessman to show the achievements of his firm in relation to its standing in the community. Out of this comes a certain pride and mutual understanding that always comes with sharing this knowledge.

If a closer understanding between education and business can be developed so that each will gain an appreciation of the other's purposes and accomplishments, the day will be one of the most worth-while events in the city.

Valuable to Teachers

Contact with business gives the teachers an intimate view, one which an outsider is not often able to see; it supplements textbook theory with a laboratory experience in better understanding how the personal habits that they are trying to form in their pupils are needed in business; it also gives a first-hand experience in the production, distribution and service agencies of Jacksonville. Teachers are better able to give their students counsel and guidance.

Valuable to Community

This method of reaching such a vast cross-section of the community and of Morgan county (not only the teachers, but indirectly the students and their families) through the teachers being able better to disseminate the free enterprise message, will bring Jacksonville returns manyfold, and will have a far-reaching public benefit.

Schedule of Events

All teachers will assemble at the Jacksonville high school auditorium at 8:45 a.m. Thursday, Oct. 15. Host firms will have representatives on hand to meet their visitors.

Joe Meek, Illinois Retail Merchants Association, will be the guest speaker at the assembly at 9 o'clock. Teachers and escorts from host firms will load into cars for transportation to the places of business starting at 9:30.

The day's activities will conclude at 3:30 p.m. when all teachers will be returned to the starting point.

Pistol Wounds Man; Wife Is Fined $50

Claiming that her husband was wounded accidentally by a .22 caliber pistol, Mrs. Barbara Banks, 221½ Anna street, was fined $50 in police magistrate's court Saturday morning for discharging a firearm within the city limits, and was released from custody.

Both Gilbert Banks, Jr., victim of the shooting, and his wife insisted to police that the pistol accidentally discharged while they were scuffling.

Banks was shot in the left arm near the shoulder shortly after 3 o'clock Friday afternoon. He was taken to Our Saviour's by a neighbor, Junior Mitchell. Although he was still a patient there Saturday afternoon, his condition was not believed serious.

Police held Mrs. Banks overnight at the city hall for questioning. While the versions of the couple concerning details of the shooting were somewhat different, according to police, both asserted that the affair was accidental.

I.C. Among Colleges To Get Federal Loans

WASHINGTON (AP) — Forty-seven Illinois colleges have been allotted a total of $1,465,220 in federal funds for loans to worthy students during the 1959-60 school year.

The program is designed to aid students interested in continuing their studies in the fields of science and mathematics. It also provides for partial forgiveness of loans to students who enter the teaching field.

The loan program is administered by the individual schools on the local level. The Illinois institutions, and their allotments include Illinois College, Jacksonville.

At Illinois College, Mr. C. B. Wilson, college business manager, reports that approximately 35 students are participating in the National Defense Student Loan Program in the first semester of the new school year. The average individual loan is about $500.

Thus far, use of the program seems to be spread evenly among the four classes, freshman through senior. The loans are made through the local college to students in good academic standing who need financial aid in order to continue their schooling. The loan program at Illinois College is only one part of a four part financial aid program which also includes scholarships, grants, and part-time employment both on and off the campus.

In a recent comment on the value of the Student Loan Program to individual students, President L. Vernon Caine concluded, "The loans are a great boon to those for whom higher education would have been financially impossible or at least, extremely difficult financially. The loan fund together with regular scholarship funds," he said, "may even double and sometimes triple the amount of aid previously available to students in need."

Other schools on the program included Augustana College, Rock Island $9,000; Bradley University, Peoria 7,383; Eastern Illinois University, Charleston 26,317; Eureka College, Eureka 9,625; Greenville College, Greenville 19,250.

Illinois State Normal University, Normal 38,968; Illinois Wesleyan University, 23,391; Knox College, Galesburg 35,800; Lewis College of Science and Technology, Lockport 23,940; McKendree College, Lebanon 5,400; Millikin University, Decatur 10,619.

Monmouth College, Monmouth 27,000; Monticello College, Alton 2,250; Northern Illinois University, DeKalb 51,246; Olivet Nazarene College, Kankakee 24,535; Principia College, Elsah 18,463.

United Fund Group In All-Out Effort To Go 'Over The Top'

Monday night is the Final Report for the Morgan County United Fund Campaign. The organization of over 700 workers is doing everything possible to cover all prospects and complete all reports by 6:30 p.m. Monday. They will gather, for what they hope will be a Victory Dinner, at the Dunlap Hotel at that time.

F. Osborne Elliott, in a special letter to 130 chairmen and captains, voiced the optimism of the executive committee but said, "It would be a disheartening experience if we fell a few thousand dollars short of our $80,000 goal knowing we could have made it if —."

Stories of exceptional gifts, people who have given to the extent of their means, are being told by workers. Many contributors are making monthly or quarterly payments in order to do their share. Ed Wheeler, president of the United Fund Board, commented, "People give to the United Fund for many reasons: to promote the idea of one campaign for all causes each year; because of help or service they or their family have received from some of the agencies in the Fund; but I believe most contributors give for the highest motive possible, unselfish gratitude. We're grateful for this community we live in, for the opportunities and service these agencies give our youth and the needy, and for the personal blessings that are ours, that we may share voluntarily with others."

Any persons who have not been contacted at work or at home are asked to send their gift to the campaign office, 209 Gibson Building, or to call CHestnut 3-1006 and a worker will pick up their gift.

Research Forum

Earlier this week Jack Moore was host to members of Research Forum No. 24 at a 6:30 dinner. A short business session was held following the meal at which it was voted to take space in the calendar being promoted by the Band Boosters Club.

Charles Shipley read the paper of the evening which had been prepared by E. Fred Evans on the "Psychological Aspects of Speech Hesitancy.' It was stated that great strides have been taken in the search for the exact cause of stuttering; yet no answer has been established that is operative for all cases. The views and theories of many different authorities were quoted as to the causes and treatment of stuttering.

It was generally agreed that stuttering is not hereditary. After centuries of theoretical groping, stuttering is at last recognized as a mental phenomenon. The conclusion of one of the authorities quoted was that educational institutions should not try to get out from under their responsibility to the stutterer, but should undertake to use corrective measures through the directions of trained psychologists and doctors of medicine, until such time as these fields see fit to assume their responsibility in this special division.

Otto Henry then read a paper on the origin and little known history of the son "Home on the Range" and a biographical sketch of the author, Dr. Brewster Higly, who spent the last 40 of his 89 years helping to bring the orderly ways of civilization into the untamed West.

Winds, Heavy Rains Cause Minor Damage In City, Area

Blustery autumn winds and chilling rains swept Jacksonville and surrounding area Saturday providing a blanket of moisture for farm communities. The rains which began with showers Friday poured more than two and one half inches of rain over the city.

From the 36 hour period which began at 7 a.m. Friday and ended at 7 p.m. Saturday the WLDS recordings showed a total of 2.61 inches of rain had fallen in the Jacksonville area. Most of the rain fell during the day Saturday, although there were light showers Friday.

High winds in the area caused minor damage to many trees and light shrubs in Jacksonville as well as cities in Adams, Pike, Greene and other Morgan county sites. No major damage was reported in most places. Telephone circuits to surrounding areas were out for most of the evening due to high wind.

In Roodhouse heavy rains filled the streets as the waters backed up in the sewers. Local police were kept busy in Jacksonville as weather conditions played havoc with power lines and sewers.

The fire department got into the act when winds blew over a television antenna at the residence of Clara Sharp, 223 West College, causing the motor control to shoot sparks. The firemen disconnected the motor.

Traffic over routes 36-54 east of the city was greatly slowed due to the hard rains. Most of Illinois was hampered somewhat by the winds and rains.

Northern Illinois was hit quite hard in two spots, one at Ursa where fire destroyed the Christian Church, and the other at Monmouth where several injuries and one fatality were reported.

Farmers in the area felt the rain was needed even though it interferred with soybean harvesting and corn picking. Most of them were willing to trade a couple of idle days for improved plowing conditions brought about by the extra moisture.

Hunting Season Near—Is Your Dog Ready?

URBANA—With the first nip of fall in the air, the thoughts of many men—and dogs—turn to fields and streams where game birds abide.

That's the time when Rover, be he setter, bird dog or just plain pooch, is expected to earn his keep for the rest of the year.

To keep hunting dogs in good health and in the best field form, the University of Illinois College of Veterinary Medicine offers the following suggestions:

First and most important is good nutrition. Feed the dog well before and during the hunting season, because he will need extra energy.

Since the dog will probably be exposed to a variety of weather conditions, good housing will help to maintain his resistance to disease, especially pneumonia and other respiratory ailments.

Before the opening of the hunting season, hunting dogs should be exercised. Dog owners should lengthen the exercise period as the opening day approaches.

Cuts and minor wounds cannot be ignored. They might become infected, requiring long and tedious treatment. This might put a dog on the "sidelines" when the season opens.

A hunting dog should have a rabies vaccination before going into the field. While in the field, a dog may encounter a skunk or other wild animal. More than half of the rabies cases diagnosed in the midwest are found in skunks.

If the dog tires easily, becomes listless and develops a bad cough, it may be the first sign of heart worms, a common disease in Illinois dogs. These worms live in the dog's heart and may eventually cause death. Accurate diagnosis is possible only by microscopic examination of a blood sample. Treatment may be effective if started early.

Cass Farm Family To Host Exchange Student From Iran

VIRGINIA — Knowing and understanding our neighbors in foreign lands is the stepping stone to world peace. A Cass county farm family will have an opportunity to provide the climate for this better understanding in the near future. Kheder Johari, Foreign Youth Exchange student from Iran, will be the guest of the Audace Herzberger family from Sept. 26 to Oct. 15.

During this time Kheder will live with, and take part in the activities of an average American family. By this close association an exchange of customs, ideas and philosophies will take place to the benefit of all.

Illinois Farmers Outlook Letter

Total United States crop production for 1959 will be near the record set last year. But some crops are much larger than those of 1958, while others are smaller.

Corn and cotton production especially are larger. The smaller crops include wheat, oats, barley, sorghum grain, soybeans, flaxseed and hay.

The production index for all crops now is calculated at 117, or only 1 point less than last year's record. This index is based on 1947-1949—100.

The index of yields per acre for 28 leading crops is figured at 134, only 9 points short of the all-time record set a year ago. This index also is based on 1947-1949—100.

Big acreages and good yields are combined to make total grain production about equal to or slightly above the previous record set only last year.

Feed supplies are abundant over most of the country, although growing conditions were not quite so good as in 1958. Severe drouth cut corn yields in central and eastern Illinois and in east-central Missouri. A larger and more severe drouth covered the northern Great Plains (the Dakotas and adjoining areas). The southern and western states also had more drouth than in 1958.

Corn. The 1959 crop is estimated at 4,382 million bushels, 15 per cent more than the crop harvested a year ago. This big crop, however, is offset by reduced production of other feeds.

Oats. Production is figured at only 1,075 million bushels, 24 percent less than last year and 18 percent less than the 10-year 1948-1957 average.

Sorghum grain. This crop, produced mostly in northern Texas and western Kansas, is forecast at 566 million bushels, down 8 percent from a year ago.

Barley. The 1959 crop is listed at 408 million bushels, 13 percent smaller than the one produced last year.

Soybeans. Production is forecast at 533 million bushels, 7 percent less than the 1958 crop. The worst of the Illinois drouth was in the heart of the bean belt, and yields may be lower than had been expected.

Hay. Indications point to a total production of 111 million tons, which is 9 percent less than last year.

Pasture condition. The condition of pastures and ranges on Sept. 1 was figured at 78 compared with 86 for the year before.

Cotton. This southern money crop was estimated at 14,815,000 bales. This supply would be 20 percent greater than last year, but only 5 percent above the 10-year average.

Milk production. Production in August apparently totaled about 10.3 billion pounds, 1 percent less than the year before and also 1 percent less than the 10-year 1948-1957 average production for the month. Production for the year to September 1 totaled 87.2 billion pounds, down 1 percent from 1958 and only 3 percent more than the 10-year average.

Egg production. August production was estimated at 4.7 billion, up 1 percent from 12 months before. Production for the year to Sept. 1 was 42.8 billion, up 4 percent from the year before, but only 5 percent above the 10-year average.

More Hessian Fly Damage To Wheat Expected In 1960

Hessian flies will pose more of a threat this year than last in Illinois wheat-growing areas.

This report is based on a recent study by entomologists of the Illinois Natural History Survey and the University of Illinois agricultural extension service. They report that Hessian fly numbers have jumped this year to an average of 10.6 puparia per 100 tillers. The 1958 average was only 2.9 puparia.

Entomologists H. B. Petty and Steve Moore suggest that wheat growers can help control the Hessian fly population by observing suggested seeding dates. In Morgan county this year, the best time to seed wheat is from Oct. 2 to Oct. 4, according to the entomologists.

The same dates are recommended for Scott, Pike and Sangamon counties. In Cass Sept. 30-Oct. 2 is the suggested time, with Oct. 4-7 in Greene.

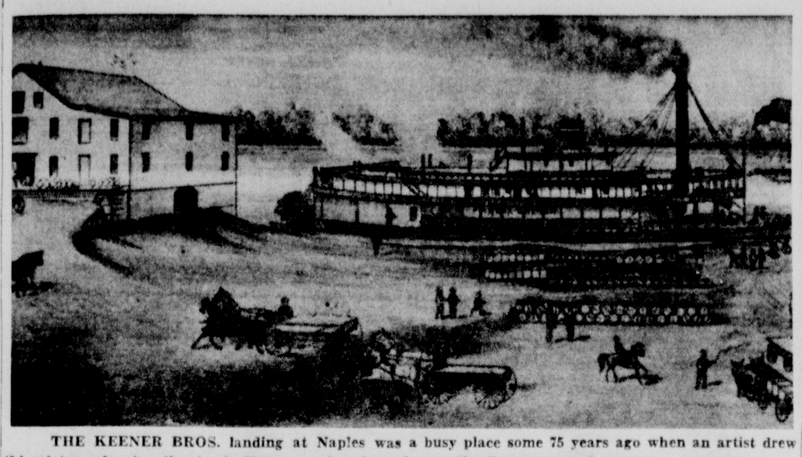
Seeding dates depend on county location, because the flies emerge first in northern counties.

The entomologists say that wheat seeded earlier than recommended may escape serious damage. But early plantings will enable the fly population to build up to damaging numbers next spring.

Two varieties of wheat, Dual and Ponca, show good resistance to Hessian fly populations. Planting either of these varieties in areas where they are adapted may help to prevent a build-up of the fly. Destroying volunteer wheat will also help.

Feeding trials at the University of Illinois show that dairy heifers make faster and more efficient gains on corn silage than on sorghum silage.

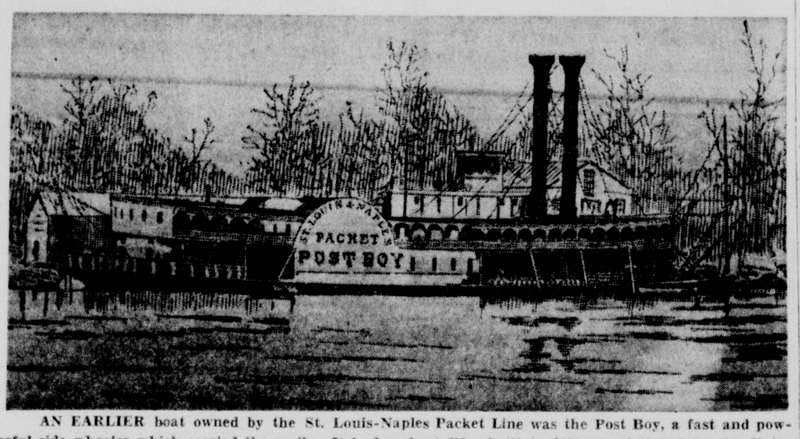
River Takes Farm Products To Market



THE KEENER BROS. landing at Naples was a busy place some 75 years ago when an artist drew this picture showing the Annie Keener packet docked near the Farmers warehouse.

The Annie Keener was a shallow draught boat built to maintain the regular Keener St. Louis Naples packet line scheduled during low water periods. She ran between St. Louis and Peoria for years.

The teams in the foreground are hauling corn to the warehouse, to be shelled and bagged in two bushel sacks for downstream delivery. The barrels in the foreground could be from the Exeter Mills, which ground native wheat into excellent flour at the rate of 80 barrels per day. Most of it went downstream. The ox team at extreme right may be hauling in four barrels of the famed Pollock's Double Distilled Pure Corn Whiskey, also made in Exeter and termed by old timers as the most virile concoction ever produced by a still.



AN EARLIER boat owned by the St. Louis-Naples Packet Line was the Post Boy, a fast and powerful side-wheeler which carried the mails. It had a short life; built in 1859, requistioned by the Union in 1861 and burned at the St. Louis wharf by Confederate saboteurs in 1863.

Less Dramatic Now, But Much More Efficient

Last week a retired locomotive engineer, 91 year old Ken Dresser of Peru, Ind., returned to the Illinois river town where he spent his childhood. Keen and alert, he greatly enjoyed his visit to Naples.

He told how interesting, exciting and busy the town was some 80 years ago, when steamboating flourished on the Illinois river and when the town was the terminus of the Toledo, Peoria and Western railroad. The latter became a part of the Wabash system.

He recalled the sadder days which followed, when flood and fire struck the enterprising town, when the railroads pushed the slower river packet out of business, and finally how the railroad business there dried up when the bridges were built at Meredosia and Valley City.

As he was talking to a group of friends gathered at the new Boatel built alongside the river by Mr. and Mrs. Paul Vannier of Bluffs, a towboat pushing barges sunk deep in the water chugged by.

Ocean Voyage Ahead

A deckhand basking in the sun waved. He answered a shouted query by saying the tow was loaded with soybeans, headed for New Orleans. A lot of Illinois soybeans, maybe 300,000 bushels of the world's best, were on their way to foreign ports.

The shorter work week, coupled with the power lawn mower and the outboard motor boat, has breathed new life in the once dormant town of Naples. It looks better every time you see it. What will property there be worth when the 35 hour week rolls around?

And the Illinois river has come back as a main transportation artery of America's Heartland. Traffic is growing every year, and anybody can hazard a guess that the St. Lawrence seaway will give it a real boost in the years to come.

Mr. Dresser says that maybe, some day, the river packet will come back.

"The Best Way"

"At least, it should," he declared, "because it is the best way anybody can travel. I used to go to St. Louis with my mother when she went shopping. We'd get aboard the Calhoun near sundown, have supper, have a pleasant evening, eat a real breakfast and be in St. Louis around sunrise. We'd do our trading, get back on board about 7 o'clock and be home the next morning. I think the fare was around $5, counting stateroom and meals—and I can tell you they were real meals.

"The river boats were wonderful for hog raisers. The farmers would bring the hogs down to some sand bar and let them wallow in the water until the boat showed up. The hogs squealed up the gangplank and then settled down for a smooth, quiet, cool, overnight sleep. They were in perfect shape when they were unloaded at 7 o'clock in the morning at the stockyards. Hogs that have to ride to market in a railroad car or a truck have it pretty rough," he observed.

Some of his listeners recalled that the first time they saw the big city of St. Louis was when they "chaperoned" a bunch of hogs to market. Free return passes with stateroom accommodations and meals were given to consignors.

Most of crew members of the St. Louis-Naples Packet Line and their families lived in Naples and gave considerable flavor and zest to the entire community. Steamboat men, particularly the pilots, captains and mates, were well known wherever they went.

Deserved Popularity

"But the most popular man was the steward," Dresser recalls, "and Fielding Corbin was the best of them all. Women would wait at the landing. They'd talk to Corbin, tell him what they wanted from St. Louis and how much they could pay, and he'd run all over St. Louis picking up what they wanted. He could look at a piece of plaid goods, feel it over, and bring back a yard or so to match, everytime. Show him a sample of thread and he'd bring back a spool of the same, identically."

Mr. Dresser was born in a house that is still standing just south of the architecturally-famous Collins House, now known as the Abbott house. His grandfather, Peter Critzer, ran the steam ferry at Naples; his grand-uncle, Charles Dresser, was the Episcopalian rector who married Miss Mary Todd and Abraham Lincoln of Springfield, and later sold his house on South Eighth street to the young couple, which was the only house they ever owned; his father was a conductor on the Toledo, Peoria and Western.

Next week we'll run another story telling something of Mr. Dresser's 60 years with the railroads, 50 years as a locomotive engineer.

KEN DRESSER, 91, of Peru, Ind., is a native of Naples. He recalls the busy days when the river packet was king and is now delighted that the outboard motor boat fever is bringing the town back to life. He owns what is probably the best private collection of steamboat pictures and photographs in the country and is shown here with some copies of his prints on display in the club room of the Naples Boatel.

U. I. Sheep Day Program Set For Oct. 30

URBANA — The ninth annual University of Illinois sheep day gets under way Friday, Oct. 30. According to U. S. Garrigus, head of the sheep division, there is something in the program for all who are in the sheep business, whether they are growers, feeders, shearers, salespeople, meat packers or in other related fields.

Activities will start at 9 a.m. CST in the sheep barns south of the stadium. Various demonstrations on blocking, drenching and rumen sampling will be run off. Symptoms of nitate poisoning in sheep will also be illustrated.

The program will move to the stock pavilion for the rest of the morning, featuring the latest in sheep research at the university. Included will be a report on sheep carcass quality by researcher B. C. Breidenstein, and a report on spot wool pooling by J. M. Lewis of the Dixon Springs Experiment station. Dr. M. E. Mansfield, Dixon Springs veterinarian, will discuss new developments in internal parasite control, and E. E. Hatfield, animal science researcher, will give the latest findings on fattening lambs in corn fields.

In the afternoon R. M. Jordan, head of sheep work at the University of Minnesota, will talk about early weaning of lambs.

Arenzville Man On U.I. Board

Martin Burrus of Burrus Seed Farms, Arenzville, has been named to serve a three year term on the advisory board of the U.I. agronomy department, announces Dean Louis B. Howard. He is a former president of the Morgan County Agricultural Extension council.

Henry A. Longmeyer of Greenfield was also named to serve for the next three years as an advisor to the animal science department. J. R. Fulkerson of Jerseyville is an honorary lifetime member of the department board.

K. Starr Chester, technical adviser of the Alton Box Board Co., was appointed to the forestry advisory board. He succeeds A. C. Hart of Arenzville.

ADVERTISE — IT PAYS

This Week.. at Dixon Springs

This year we are making more than 2,000 tons of corn silage on the Station. That is enough to feed more than 650 mature beef animals for 100 days this winter. Since the first days of the Dixon Springs Experiment Station, corn silage has been an important ingredient in our cattle and sheep wintering programs.

The reason corn silage has been such an important part of the Dixon Springs program is that we know of no better way to get more feed to feed livestock. Growing corn one year in a six-year rotation will make it possible to increase cattle numbers by at least 25 per cent over a straight pasture program. One acre of corn in the silo will winter at least three mature beef cows.

Dixon Springs Rotation

Years ago we recognized that there was no such thing as a truly productive permanent pasture. Clovers in the mixture disappeared after four or five years, leaving nothing but grasses — low production. The answer we found was to renew the pastures about every five years. We tore up the old sod and made a complete new seeding. Although this was a step in the right direction, it was not a big enough step. Including one year of corn for silage in the rotation not only increased the year's feed supply, but also made better and more weed-free pasture mixtures. We now grow corn not only on bottomland areas, but also on the hills. Some people have called this rotation the "Dixon Springs Rotation." This is it: corn, small grain, pasture, pasture, pasture, pasture.

Carrying Capacity

Land that has been fertilized and seeded to productive legumes and grasses and then reseeded every five years can be expected to carry one beef cow for every three or four acres. This three or four acres should provide year-round feed for the cow while she grows and weans a calf. In other words, 100 acres of such pasture should carry 25 to 35 cows. Under this plan the 100 acres would be divided into five different fields and one field would be reseeded each year.

But if you go one step further and make six fields and include corn for silage, you may then expect to carry a cow the year round on two or three acres. In other words, 100 acres of land in the "Dixon Springs Rotation" should carry 35 to 45 cows — an increase of 10 cows for every 100 acres of land. The corn for silage makes the difference. The nine or ten extra calves in one year will go a long way toward paying the cost of a silo.

Correction

Several weeks ago we reported that Bob Nelson, forestry extension specialist, and Bob Gilmore, forsetry researcher, had demonstrated the tree planter to a group of boys from the Farm Boys' Forestry Camp. We said that the tree planter would plant 1,000 trees a day as against 500 trees a day for hand planting. Well, the hand-planting facts were O.K., but we surely did miss on the planter. Instead of 1,000 trees a day, the tree planter will sock them in at the rate of 1,000 an hour! That's speed.

Proof Of The Pudding

On its face, Soviet Premier Khrushchev's plan to wipe out his and all the world's armies in four years has the innocent appeal of simplicity and completeness.

Unquestionably this key feature was offered with the deliberate intent of catching the fancy of billions around the globe who are desperately hungry for a durable peace.

Well, then, let's play it K's way for a moment and take him at his word.

If, as he proposes, we were to abandon all military forces save those needed to preserve internal order, obviously the time for any kind of military secrecy would be past.

If there are to be no armies, no air forces, no nuclear weapons, no military schools, then no nation on earth can have anything to hide from any other.

Let a corps of United Nations inspectors therefore roam freely across all borders, to see that this total disarmament is in fact being achieved everywhere — as planned and promised.

What can be the objection to this simple enforcement check if the intentions of all nations are honorable and their performance is matching?

Khrushchev has presented a plan that fairly drips with innocence. Let him prove his innocence. Let us demand of him that he underwrite his grand gesture by the supreme act of good faith—by letting the world see that Russia will substantiate its pledges by disarmament free of all cloak.

Nothing we know today gives us great hope, of course, that he will in fact do this. The words are big but the Soviet performance puny.

Khrushchev dared to blame the West for the long post-war stalemate over disarmament. Any schoolboy who can read the record knows that times without number, sensible and solid Western proposals have foundered on the persistent Russian refusal to allow enforcement procedures that meet even minimum standards of adequacy and safety for the free countries.

Furthermore, on this occasion Khrushchev again rejected proper inspection, saying this should come only when disarmament has been completed. This means only when the West has committed itself beyond recall by destroying its vital nuclear shield.

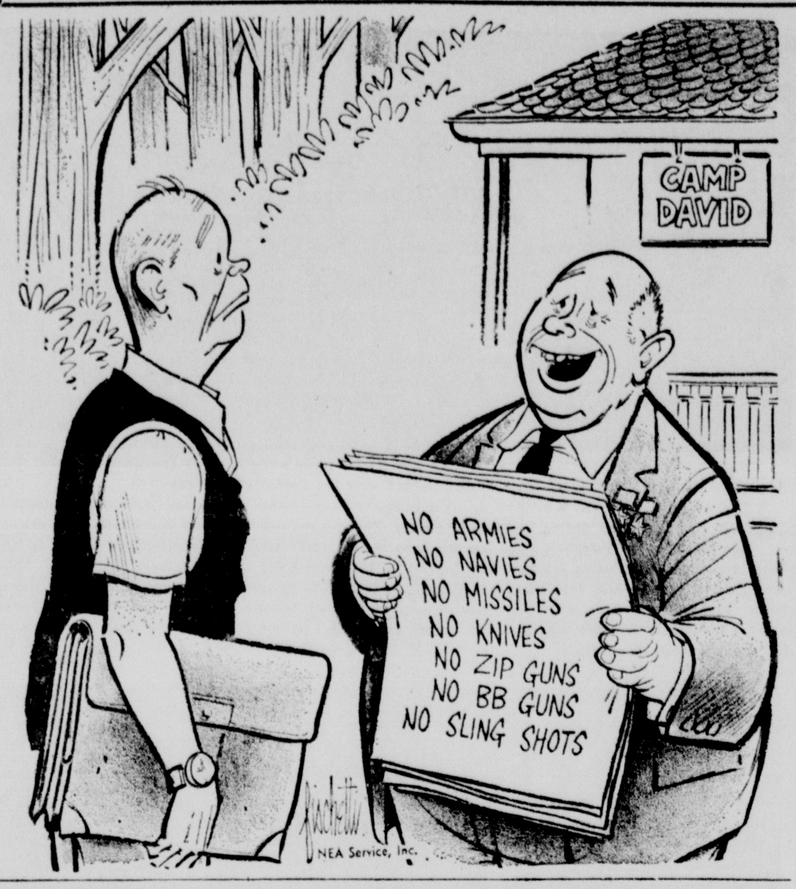
This amounts to his saying: "When you have abandoned all security, I'll let you see what I've done."

Khrushchev sees real inspection as a Western espionage plot. But who needs to spy if we are all honestly destroying our weapons?

What we do need is some copper-riveted assurance that Russian's performance on this promise would be better than its dismal past record.

Safety requires that we make that demand.

"---Oh, and Also No Inspection"



The World Today

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — Nikita Khrushchev has made a shambles of a supermarket, a cornfield, and stuffed-shirt diplomacy. But now the time has come to see whether he's any more than a bull in a china shop.

His American caravan, more like a mardi gras than a sightseeing expedition, included hat-swapping, hot dogs, insults, temper-tantrums, baby-patting, pig-patting, turkey tickling, and a fling at the Can-Can.

He has talked peace and he has talked big. But so far it has been all talk and all vague. Now he has to get down to cases with President Eisenhower. By Sunday when their meeting breaks up, there should be answers to two questions:

Whether he came just for the ride and the publicity; or, whether he means business, wants peace, and is willing to take steps to bring it about.

Even if the talks are only a small success Khrushchev will look like a great man to a lot of the world, since he was the one who initiated all this and went to a lot of trouble, coming over and poking around, to find a settlement.

He's done his best to create that picture of himself already.

If the talks finish in flat, dead-end failure he can blame it on this country and still look good to a lot of people. He can point to his efforts. But if there is failure, and he keeps on talking, he runs a danger:

He may wind up looking like an international windbag, which is the large size.

He and Eisenhower, as they sit down together, have one thing in common: A kind of inborn optimism that, with the proper effort and plenty of it, the world can be made wonderful. Trouble is, they haven't agreed on how to do it.

They do agree nuclear war is unthinkable — although they keep on thinking about it — but they suffered from a bafflement on how to prevent it.

They have a lot of unfinished business to discuss: Disarmament, Berlin, nuclear tests, Laos, the future of Germany, American-Soviet trade, travel exchanges between the two countries, and any other problems they can think of.

You'd have a time finding anyone here convinced the two men will reach any flat or final agreements. Maybe the most to expect is that they will make a start, at least, toward some future settlement.

Perhaps just realization by both of them that Americans and Soviets don't want to hate each other will be start enough for the two men to go on to further and more fruitful meetings.

Traditional diplomats from Washington to Hong Kong, who for years have been long on palaver and short on performance, must be horrified by Khrushchev's revolutionary approach to foreign relations.

If his mission is a success, after the kind of performance he put on, diplomats the world over may feel they had a disturbed childhood because they didn't work in a coal mine or were retarded because they went to college.

Khrushchev, despite all his shenanigans, seems to have created very little ill will in America. If he made any enemies on this trip they were probably the world's high-priced tailors.

If this trip proves successful, since he violated all the rules by wearing business clothes to a formal White House dinner in his honor, he may have done damage to sales of full dress suits and tuxedoes.

SHOULD BE LUCKY

MILWAUKEE (AP) — William H. Kaliebe figures he ought to be one of the luckiest men alive if there's anything to the legend of the four leaf clover bringing good luck.

The 55 - year - old department store receiving clerk claims to have found about 2,000 four leaf clovers in the last 45 years. Moreover, he says he has plucked hundreds of five and six leafers, a few seven and eight leafers and even one 10-leaf job.

"They really aren't as rare as most people think," says Kaliebe.

Most of the exports from Uruguay, the South American republic, are animal products such as packaged meats and hides.

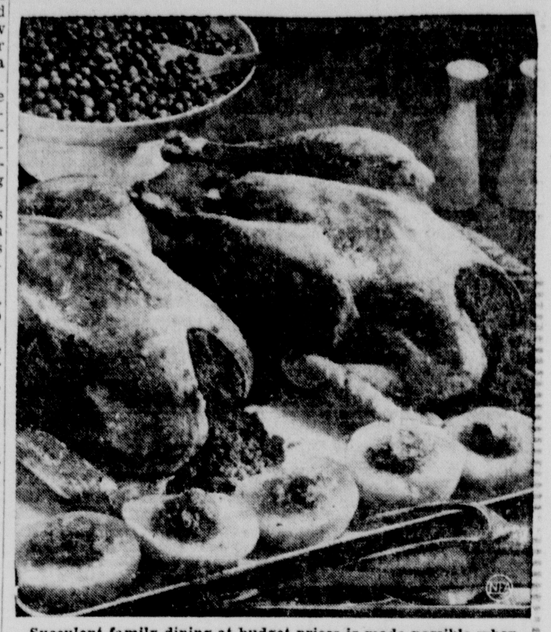
Family Meals Are Ties To Bind Us Closer Together



Succulent family dining at budget prices is made possible when serving roast young chicken; the protein's high, the cost low.

BY GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Food and Markets Editor

Improved food preservation and distribution, the steady addition of new convenience foods in the markets—everything from goose to mousse—has given impetus to better family meals. Discovering new foods and new ways to prepare them is now a favorite American pastime.

Educators see this trend as a promise of strengthened family relations and greater emotional stability in American homes. At the Merrill-Palmer School in Detroit, internationally recognized for its work in child guidance, this trend has been noted.

Muriel G. Wagner, distinguished for her work in nutrition for children, stated, "this return to pleasurable eating and more adequate food intake can strengthen family relationships. But no matter how 'square' meals are or how carefully they are planned to include the essential food groups, the family members profit little unless the food is eaten enjoyably. Over good food, family members can cultivate common interests and develop a feeling of 'oneness.' Well-planned meals, leisurely eaten, set the stage for conveying love, companionship and a feeling of belonging.

"Children learn about the world, the people in it, its rules, and our place in that world through food," she continued. "From infancy on, the amount and kind of food we eat is determined by an interplay of hunger and appetite. Every child is born hungry. The kind of mental images he builds around getting food results in good or poor appetites. Good appetites are encouraged by pleasant experience with food. Poor appetites result from punishing, threatening, scolding and bribing over food. Many adult food dislikes, even dislikes of eating, can be traced to these tactics at the family dinner table."

Miss Wagner cautioned against forcing children to eat more than they want because a child's appetite, like an adult's, varies from meal to meal. As with grownups, they eat more one day, less another.

The school recommends that children eat with the family, even the high chair set. "Family meals give a child an opportunity to learn," she explained. "He tastes sweet foods and salty foods and crisp and soft foods. If the family likes tuna fish, but not salmon, the odds are that Johnny will learn to like tuna fish. Not only because it is served but because he learns by imitating others. If the family is interested in a variety of foods, the child tends to try new kinds. Children identify themselves with the loved parent. The things the parent rejects or enjoys can determine what the child eats. Childhood experiences forecast food selections in later years. Good habits formed early in life withstand teen-aged food fads and jabs.

"Meal preparation as well as the meal itself can be a family affair. Cooking can be a creative outlet for the entire family rather than a tedious chore for one. Remember last summer's barbecue? Why not encourage the man of the house into the kitchen to mix his own special salad dressing? Preschool Susie will at least taste the "lovely green broccoli" if she "cooks" it herself. Even cutting calories can be easier if it's a shared experience," she added.

Asked if the experienced faculty at the Merrill-Palmer school believe that better meals actually do build better families, Nutritionist Wagner replied "yes," and with conviction. "Good family meals served attractively in a pleasant, relaxed atmosphere, pay off in dividends of better mental and physical health for both children and adults, alike," she insisted. "In fact, happy family meals can be the tie that binds."

A Menu for the Whole Family

The following family menu uses foods every member of the family can enjoy regardless of age. Also it is economical because broiler-fryer chickens provide high class protein at budget prices.

Menu: Tomato juice with lemon wedge; roast broiler-fryer chicken; cornflake crumb stuffing; green peas; hot cling peaches; enriched bread, butter or margarine; tossed green salad; butterscotch sundae; coffee, tea, milk.

Success As Script Writer Has Changed Rod Serling's Outlook

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Rod Serling, one of the earliest and loudest of television's angry young men, is angry no more.

For years he engaged in a running battle with agencies and sponsors over his right as an author to say what he wanted in the way he wanted.

"I'm no longer an angry young man," smiled the dark-haired, 34-year-old ex-combat paratrooper. "Now I'm merely a petulant, aging man."

Actually, Rod, who probably has rung up more "firsts" than any other TV writer, has simmered down because he feels he has won success without losing his freedom.

"My philosophy is to please as many people as I can—without selling out to them," he said.

Serling makes his debut in a new role Oct. 2 as executive producer of a weekly series of odd, offbeat and sometimes eerie tales of adventure in the realm of the imagination.

He has written 21 of the first 26 stories himself, and will also act as host and narrator for the series.

"That makes me a star, I guess," he said cheerfully. It will also give him three or four salaries, plus later residuals. These rerun rights are highly important today. They are bringing some writers from $25,000 to $75,000 a year.

Serling won a $500 prize for a radio script while still a student at Antioch College in Ohio in 1948, then wrote 40 more scripts that didn't sell.

He quit a $90 a week job with a Cincinnati radio station when he asked for a $10 raise and was turned down.

For two "lean but happy years" he and his wife—he married his college sweetheart—lived in a trailer until he began to click as a free lance.

"I got $100 for my first half-hour TV script," he recalled. "Writers are better paid now. The fee for a half-hour show today is from $2,000 to $4,000."

Altogether he has sold more than 100 TV scripts and six screen plays.

"I've got two healthy children and a good wife, and I can't conceive of anything else a person could hunger for," he said.

"I'm not in rebellion against anything. What can I rebel against? Life has been too good to me."

In Hollywood

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—When will the comedians be coming back to television? Maybe never.

I came to this conclusion while watching a couple of the new comedy entries this week. We may have to face the fact that TV is not a medium in which comedy can thrive and survive.

Take "The Dennis O'Keefe Show," which made its debut Tuesday. O'Keefe is one of the movies' better handlers of funny stuff; he can double-take with the best of them. But his talents weren't enough to save the insane script.

There could be humor in having a sophisticated man act like a teen-ager to disenchant a swooning young girl. At least it was funny when Cary Grant did it in "The Bachelor and the Bobby-soxer." But the situation had such obviousness on "The Dennis O'Keefe Show" that the guffawing laugh track sounded more idiotic than usual.

Then came "Fibber McGee and Molly," with the laugh track more restrained and the comedy gentler. Bob Sweeney is right as Fibber, but Kathy Lewis seems to miss the comic nuances as Molly.

Maybe the producers felt TV comedy characters have to be straighter, more like the folks next door. Maybe they're right. But this underlines why radio was a perfect medium for comedy and TV isn't.

Back in those dear, dead days of bigtime radio, we could imagine Fibber's closet, Jack Benny's vault and Fred Allen's alley. Those things were funnier to us than if we could see them. Charlie McCarthy was not just a dummy, he was a mischievous boy who said outrageously funny things.

When TV came in, the networks signed up every comedian in sight, thinking that comedy would remain as supreme as it had in radio.

But one by one the comedy shows died, until only Red Skelton remains.

There will always be a degree of comedy on TV and some of it will be funny. But ah, those days of radio.

WEEKLY BIBLE COMMENT

Bible Is Rich in Human Values

BY WILLIAM E. GILROY, D.D.

The Bible's first, great value lies not in its incomparable place in literature, nor in its immense interest as a human document.

Of first importance, of course, is the fact that the Bible is a book concerning God, revealing to man the gospel of the grace of God and the true way of life.

Paradoxically, because of that very fact, the Bible is a book of, and for, man. Even if the Bible brings to man the new life that is its great purpose, he misses a vast part of what the Bible has to give if he does not know his Bible in all its varied and realistic story of human life.

I have referred previously to a book by Louis Paul, "Heroes, Kings, and Men" because, as a novelist, the author approaches the Bible in much the same way as I have done as a journalist.

My Christian ministry through the years has been as much as a newspaperman as in pulpit and church.

I have been chiefly concerned with the spiritual and moral values of the Bible, but I have sought to relate them to daily life and problems.

When I have written of Bible incidents and Bible characters, I have endeavored to make them presently vivid and vital for life today as well as presenting them as incidents and characters in the far past.

The fact is that much in the Bible is downright sensational, and this is a reflection suggested by Mr. Paul's book, which in itself is not sensational, but skillfully drawn from the Bible itself.

All of which points up the fact that the Bible is no compilation of dust-dry history.

It is a vital, living document for living, a great wellspring and source of information concerning human values.

The Bible is best read in its entirety, of course. However, for proper, limited use in daily reading, there are many compilations and condensations which proves most convenient and valuable.

They by-pass portions of the Bible, such as long genealogies, which prove of little interest to those other than serious Bible students.

It's a Man's World---Where the Sign Says So; Undercover Story: Dirt Under the Welcome Rug

BY JERRY BENNETT
NEA Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON—(NEA) — That woman reporter who got tossed out of the men's bar at the National Press Club before the Khrushchev luncheon was Mary Van Rensselear Thayer, veteran free-lance writer. Mrs. Thayer herself wrote about the incident in her story of the event, but neglected to mention her own name. What she wrote was:

"An innocent woman reporter, hearing gay noises, penetrates the Members' Bar, unaware of its sanctity. She is immediately ejected."

The way the eyewitnesses tell it, Mrs. Thayer knew darn well where she was going. Tom Horner of the Washington Star, Press Club president last year, spotted her first. Always the southern gentleman, Mr. Horner asked her politely to leave.

President W. H. Lawrence of the New York Times, the more direct type, finished the job. In his own words, he "threw her out," with the admonition to "try to be a lady, if she could."

IF RUSSIA'S Mr. Big and Mrs. Khrushchev had looked under those yards and yards of red plush carpet that were rolled out for them on arrival at Andrews Field, Md., they would have found that a lot of cigarette butts had been swept under it.

The Air Force did a wonderful job of having that carpet clean. A tech sergeant was assigned to sweep it carefully just before the Russian plane landed. The sergeant, with a new broom, got off every speck of lint. But when he came to cigarette butts along the edge of the carpet, he carefully tucked them out of sight—under the rug.

DESPITE THE warm greetings exchanged by Chairman Khrushchev and Soviet Ambassador Mikhail Menshikov upon the Kremlin chief's arrival, there's speculation about whether their enthusiasm for each other was only for show. The doubts stem from an incident which occurred on the second day of Mr. K.'s visit.

Early that morning, Menshikov and two aides were waiting outside the Russian embassy to join Khrushchev on his trip to the Agriculture Department's Research Center at Beltsville, Md. When Mr. K. didn't arrive to pick him up at the appointed time, Menshikov began to pace back and forth along the sidewalk.

As the minutes ticked away, the ambassador began to get angry. His face got red, and he started pacing faster. Occasionally he would interrupt his nervous exercising and chew out one of the aides.

After about 15 minutes of these goings-on, Menshikov heaved a sigh of exasperation and stormed back inside the embassy. Khrushchev had gone to Beltsville without him, leaving directly from Blair House, five blocks away, half an hour early.

MOST UNUSUAL dish served at the big wingding that Khrushchev tossed for Ike at the Russian Embassy was nelma. It's a fish that's caught in the streams of Siberia. A waiter shaved slivers from a 30-inch-long nelma, dipped them in garlic sauce and served them raw to guests.

Russians explain that the dish is always served at their parties as a tribute to Lenin. Reason is that nelma was what the big shot Commie lived on while hiding out from the Czar in pre-revolution days.

U.S. UNDERSECRETARY of State C. Douglas Dillon got a raspberry greeting from Khrushchev when they were introduced. "I know you," said Khrushchev with a big smile and another display of his remarkable memory. "I read all your speeches — even when they attack us."

KHRUSHCHEV was strictly on the wagon for his Press Club speech. At the luncheon, he and Foreign Minister Gromyko were served—by request—a tall glass of orange juice and a double pony of brandy. They drank the orange juice instead of water with their meals but passed by the brandy. Interpreter Oleg Troyanovski carefully hid the brandy behind his water glass so it wouldn't show over TV.

THERE WAS one minor but significant omission in Oleg Troyanovski's translation of Khrushchev's Press Club answer on why he was going to China after his American visit. He explained that Oct. 1 was the 10th anniversary of the Chinese Communist revolution. It was like the October revolution of 1917 in Russia.

Actually, the Russian revolution was in October by the old-style Russian calendar, though the date is Nov. 7, under the western calendar. What Troyanovski did not not translate was a statement by Khrushchev to the effect of:

"Our October date is so very dear to us that sometimes we believe events in history should be dated from that day for the future."

It could be a significant hint that the Russians want to change the calendar to make 1917 the Year One of the Communist era, ending the Christian era.

FEW PEOPLE noticed it in the rush and crush, but the tickets for the Press Club luncheon for Khrushchev had his name spelled wrong. The first "h" was left out.

New Look Should Be Taken At Problems of the Aged

BY MARIE DAERR

Some samples of what the experts said before Sen. Pat McNamara's Subcommittee on Problems of the Aged and Aging meeting in Washington, D.C., are:

Average age at death in the United States is now about 70. It will be 82 in the year 2000. If medical care continues to improve, there is no reason why people cannot live to the ripe old age of 125.

The subcommittee should find ways to lick "the irrevelant reasons, the stereotypes and biases for refusing to hire an older worker." If a federal antiage-discrimination law did nothing else but eliminate age limits in newspaper advertisements offering jobs in some fields, this would be a "giant step" toward changing the public's attitudes.

Many men find their skills no longer useful when their employers go out of business through mergers, decentralization or liquidation. Uncle Sam could help them with grants that would provide counseling programs and special training in new skills.

Most older people in this country do not have the hospital and surgical insurance they need to get health services readily and at a reasonable cost.

According to one panelist, one-third of aged mental patients could be returned to healthy, useful lives if they got the proper treatment. In the District of Columbia, a study showed that 90 per cent of stroke victims can be discharged, capable of taking care of themselves and getting about, after an average of 30 days.

Doctors, older people and the general public must develop a "more positive and realistic attitude" toward this business of growing old.

Compulsory retirement often brings physical and mental illness. Because we retire people arbitrarily, we are packing our hospitals and mental institutions with many men and women who are there because society hasn't encouraged them to live.

The average monthly Social Security payment is less than 25 per cent of the average monthly take-home pay. This hardly approaches a decent proportion of earnings on which a person can retire. Only 25 to 30 per cent of the American labor force is covered by private pension plans.

An elderly couple owning their own home in an average suburban area would need an estimated $1,900 in 1959 to cover their basic needs. A nonworking older woman living alone in rented quarters would need about $133 a month. The average income from old age and survivors insurance for widows is about $56.

At present, some private investors consider building housing for older people merely a civic duty. This attitude will change as builders realize that housing for the older section of the population can be profitable. However, a big part of the population can only afford low-income housing, much of which will have to be subsidized by Uncle Sam.

* * *

Q—Can Social Security payments be transferred to someone else?
—R.F.L.

A—No.

Q—I was brought up to believe that, after you got to a certain age, you weren't asked how many candles should go on your birthday cake. Now people are always asking my age. Don't you think that this is a bit nervy?—Mrs. F. J.

A—Times have changed. Most people, nowadays, are proud of their age—and don't mind telling. It's a healthy attitude, in my opinion.

So They Say

If the Communists had our surplus problems, they wouldn't sit on 10 billion dollars worth of excess food and stew about it. They would use every ounce to pull the world toward their goal of world domination. We'd rather have our motor boats, our tail fins and let things slide.
—Madison, Wis., agricultural expert Robert Lewis.

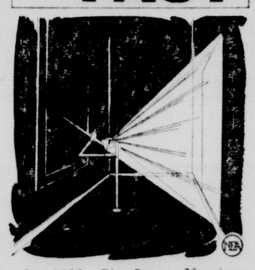
matter of FACT



In 1666, Sir Isaac Newton discovered that white light is made of many different colors. When a ray of white light shines through a prism, it is split into a band of colors. The red light is bent the least, so it appears at the top. Next in order come orange, yellow, green, blue and violet. Newton let sunlight into a darkened room through a slit, placed a prism in the light's path and studied the colors of the spectrum thrown on the wall.

Compliments Such as These Mean Music to Any Woman

The nicest compliments a middle-aged woman ever hears—

- "You and she couldn't have gone through school together! Why, you look years younger."
- "Don't tell me you're a grandmother. I can't believe you're old enough to have a grown child, much less a grandchild."
- "You've lost weight, haven't you?"
- "All my friends like you so much, Mother."
- "You can't cut your visit short. This house is mighty lonesome without you."
- "You listen to your mother. She knows what she's talking about."
- "This is delicious. I wonder, would you mind giving me the recipe. I'd like to serve it at my next bridge party."
- "You've been more like our own daughter than a daughter-in-law."
- "You must be awfully proud of your children."
- "I have the greatest respect for your husband."
- "I don't know how you accomplish so much."
- "You haven't changed a bit."
- "I knew I could depend on you."
- "You're always doing such nice things for other people."
- "There's something I'd like to ask your advice about."
- "I knew you'd understand."
- "I didn't want to make a decision until I had a chance to talk it over with you."

To a girl, these may not sound like unforgettable compliments. But they're all music to a woman's ears—every bit as important as the extravagant compliments she rated as a girl.

Scientists Ready To Put A-Bomb To Work For Man In Operation Plowshare

By RENNIE TAYLOR
Associated Press Science Writer

The thermonuclear bomb is ready to go to work, peacefully and quietly.

It has the power to landscape the face of the earth; to bring up great riches from the oceans or from underground; to probe the upper air and outer space for perhaps undreamed-of benefits.

Scientists, engineers and technicians already are busy with the preliminaries for two ventures, tentatively slated for execution within a year or two, called Project Plowshare. Plowshare is the Atomic Energy Commission's name for the whole field of undertakings contemplating the use of nuclear explosives for peaceful purposes.

One of the two imminent projects is the burial of a peaceful bomb, which is not a bomb in the military sense, in a salt mine to produce heat for power and for the quick conversion of natural substances into highly useful and easily recoverable materials.

The second is the excavation of a harbor on the bleak northwest coast of Alaska, well north of the Arctic Circle.

Close behind these are detailed proposals to dig a new and larger Panama Canal; warm up the polar regions; attempt weather control; curb hurricanes and lightning; produce cheap fresh water from the oceans; enlarge the supply of petroleum and other minerals; and make strange new chemicals, including more fuel for both reactors and nuclear explosives.

The scientists believe they have the know-how for all these and more, and have it right now.

The nuclear explosive is considered ready because the scientists have learned how to aim its split-second violence or trap it underground in the form of heat which could be stored and used gradually.

They say they have demonstrated that they can bury a device at just the right depth so that you could stand directly above it, and feel nothing more than a sudden jolt.

They worked out their mathematical formula for containment of the blast and the radioactivity from a 1.7 kiloton shot—one kiloton equals 1,000 tons of TNT—in the Nevada desert on Sept. 19, 1957, and five test blasts in October 1958.

The combination of extreme heat and pressure under certain natural underground conditions produces gems out of sand and other earth minerals.

Along with the accumulated know-how, there now is a kind of price list for peaceful nuclear explosive devices which the scientists call service charges. The Sandia Corp., nuclear weaponeer to Uncle Sam, quotes these figures:

Atomic fission device, 1 to 5 kilotons, each $500,000.

Atomic fusion device, with 5 per cent fissionable and 95 per cent fusionable fuel, 1 to 5 megatons, each $1,000,000. A megaton equals one million tons of TNT.

Ditto, in large quantities, each $850,000.

Atomic fusion device, 10 megatons, each $1,100,000.

These make just as much bang as military bombs of corresponding size and their insides are secret. The AEC refers to them as black boxes and they are not to be opened. This is the only classified aspect of the entire Project Plowshare.

With so much to go on, the AEC and the University of California's Lawrence Radiation Laboratory called the experts together in mid-May. The experts put their findings and proposals before several hundred representatives of business and industry.

Most of the project proposals came from experimenters at the university's radiation laboratories at Livermore and Berkeley and its Los Alamos scientific laboratory. They included representatives of the Sandia group, which operates at Livermore and Albuquerque, as well as a sprinkling of scientists from government agencies and industrial firms.

At the present state of readiness, actual starting of projects will be slow because of their great dimensions, the need for determining their long-range effects, and the status of international negotiations to curb or abandon nuclear testing.

Possibly the first big experiment to be tried will be Project Gnome, in which a 10-kiloton device is to be exploded in an underground salt bed near Carlsbad, N.M.

Originally the target date was this fall, but the AEC called for a delay to permit tests to determine what would happen to nearby potash mines and a gas deposit.

The salt bed was chosen for several reasons. Holes can be drilled down to it with ease from the surface. Salt won't waste much of the blast's heat through chemical changes. It is good material for conserving heat and absorbing the shock.

C. E. Violet of the Livermore laboratory tells how samples of wood, rubber, cloth, plastics, paraffin and various metals might be deposited in individual holes in the salt bed at varying distances from blast center, which at the start will produce enormous pressures and a temperature of several million degrees.

The test materials would show whether varying degrees of heat and pressure can produce new and interesting substances out of ordinary ones.

H. G. Cornell and A. D. Suttle Jr., of the Humble Oil and Refining Co., worked out formulas indicating the larger devices—1 to 10 megatons—exploded in salt or limestone could supply heat enough to produce electric power at prices competitive with conventional steam-electric systems.

One of the most important and by far the most elusive product of a nuclear blast is neutrons. These are particles with extraordinary power to rebuild atoms.

In an instant after the blast a great surge of neutrons develops. They can't be trapped for later use. They go through everything.

Scientists have hit upon the idea of planting in the path of these neutron surges materials containing atoms they want rebuilt.

This looks like a low-cost way of producing plutonium, the reactor-made synthetic fuel for fission reactors and explosive devices out of nonfissionable uranium 238. That is what the AEC reactors at the Hanford, Wash., works do slowly.

Or the surges might be used to produce the new man-made element californium, which also is fissionable and a potential nuclear explosive.

They might also be utilized to produce isotopes, the reactor-made variants of ordinary chemical elements now coming into wide use.

First of the big landscaping jobs is likely to be the Alaskan harbor excavation, less than 200 miles from Soviet Siberia.

This is called Project Chariot. The preliminary work already is under way. If no unexpected complications develop, it could reach the trigger-pulling stage in 1961.

No harbor is really needed there now. The AEC concedes this, but adds that it could become a shipping point for Alaskan coal to Japan. And if we are going to prove that we can build a harbor with nuclear blasting, this is a good place to do it.

The site is the mouth of Ogotoruk Creek, which empties into the Arctic Ocean through a tide flat of the Chuckchi Sea. The plan is to blast out a channel about three-quarters of a mile long with a ship-turning basin at its head.

Because the blasts conceivably could produce unfriendly reactions in Siberia, less than 200 miles away, or even in Alaskan communities, their calculated sizes have been shaved to bare minimums.

The shots will be fired at relatively shallow depths, and some of the blast and radioactivity is bound to escape. A platoon of scientists spent the arctic summer on the spot calculating ways of channeling these effects so they will do no harm.

They are determining also how the harbor building will affect the way of life of the Eskimos there; how plant, animal, bird and fish life may be altered; what changes will be wrought underground and on the surrounding landscape.

KHRUSHCHEV'S VOICES — Surmounting the language barrier between Soviet Premier Khrushchev and his American hosts were two often-seen, seldom-mentioned-by-name principals: his interpreters. Victor Sukhodrev, 28, at left, spoke for Mr. K on the West Coast. He is an interpreter in the strict sense of the word. Khrushchev's principal interpreter, Oleg Troyanovsky, center, at right, shown in Washington as Sen. Theodore Francis Green (D-R.I.), left, talked to Khrushchev. Considered tops in Soviet English-language translators, and adept at translating Russian into American idiom, he serves also as a foreign service counselor on Khrushchev's personal staff of advisers on American affairs. Troyanovsky is the son of the first Soviet ambassador to America. He studied at the Friends School in Washington and did undergraduate work at Swarthmore. He served under both Stalin and Molotov, but seems to be a particular favorite of Khrushchev.

Feeding beef cattle six times a day produced favorable results in a recent University of Illinois study. The cattle ate more feed, made faster gains and used their feed more efficiently.

Ashland PTA Is Asked To Help In Traffic Problem

ASHLAND — The initial PTA meeting of the 1959-60 school year was held Monday night, Sept. 21, in the high school auditorium. The meeting was opened with the pledge to the flag, after which the invocation was given by Rev. Wayne Brackett.

Mrs. Eddie McDonald resigned as treasurer, due to illness, and Mrs. Rose Aggertt was elected to fill the vacancy.

Walter Karrick, superintendent of schools, gave a short address and also stated that there would be a patrol boy stationed on the highway in the morning and evening, but due to the conflicting schedule of the seventh and eighth grades, it would be impossible to set up a patrol at noon. He asked the PTA to consider this problem to see if something could be worked out.

Spencer Thornley, vice president and program chairman, had charge of the program, which consisted of a vocal duet by Marilyn Clemons and Marilyn Fulton, who sang "The Wedding of Jack and Jill." They were accompanied by Judy Fulton at the piano. Roni Gardner played a piano solo, and Marion and Roberta Lohman sang a selection.

The next meeting will be held Oct. 12 in the auditorium and will start promptly at 7:30 p.m. The speaker for the evening will be Dr. Chatara. Open house will be conducted in Mrs. Sue Doolin's seventh grade and Mr. Warren's eighth grade.

The refreshment committee will be Mrs. Ward Petefish, Mrs. Gerald Douglass, Mrs. Harold Winner and the room parent committee.

NEW HOME SERIES

NO. 14

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas O. Coultas are now residing in their attractive new home, located six miles Northwest of Jacksonville, a short distance South of Route No. 104

Recently completed by John H. Seymour, Building Contractor, the house occupies the site of their former home which was destroyed by fire. The exterior of the house is designed of bevel siding, painted White. A massive chimney of Red Brick, flanked by large planter boxes of Brick, not only services the living room fireplace, but it definitely is a beauty mark of the exterior. A wide roof overhang extends over the front terrace to form a sheltered entry. Broad steps leading to the entry are protected by ornamental Wrought Iron hand rails.

Immediately inside the front door there is a handy coat closet and a visual divider screens the entry way from the dining area. The design of the divider is certainly unique . . . a decorative planter is topped by ceiling high spindles that incorporate open shelves . . . adding distinction to the decor. To the left, the living room opens invitingly. As you step in, an impression of warm hospitality and cheer is created by a large fireplace of cut Stone centered along the outside wall, a wide hearth of Red Tile provides a pleasing accent. Plenty of light and ventilation is provided by three-quarter length casement windows on either side of the fireplace. Plastered walls and ceiling combine soft colors in perfect harmony with the wall-to-wall carpeting. With direct access to the kitchen, the dining extension of the living room is scaled for full dining facilities. The end wall is devoted to windows placed high enough for furniture arrangement below.

The kitchen has an ideal arrangement of Utilities, the surface range with a ventilating hood, sink, wall oven unit, and built-in freezer and refrigerator compartments above base cabinets, are all just a few steps apart. The appliances with their finish of Copper Tone and the cabinets of Fruit wood with graceful diecast pulls finished in Bronze blend beautifully with the color scheme of Sunlight yellow used for the ceiling and walls. The Formica countertops are Yellow flecked with Gold. The Vinyl floor is a Terrazo pattern in a Sand Tone. A cheerful spot for informal dining is provided by windows having a Southern exposure. Near the windows there is a door leading to a small vestibule which gives access to the full basement, as well as to the rear entry. An additional built-in cabinet for China storage and a telephone desk are plus features, the result of resourceful planning.

Adjacent to the kitchen, a multi-use room tells its own practical story: Den, Game Room, or Guest Room, double windows assure maximum ventilation and sunlight. A large closet with sliding doors affords convenient storage.

Mist Green Ceramic Tile is used on the lower half of the walls and contrast has been achieved by using Yellow paint for the upper half of the walls and ceiling of the well-appointed bathroom which opens into a hall leading from the den to the bedrooms. Efficient light is provided by the strip fixture on either side of the mirror above the lavatory. The floors of the bathroom and den are of the same Vinyl covering as the kitchen. A towel closet in the bathroom is supplemented by a linen closet conveniently placed in the hall to serve the bedroom areas.

The bedrooms are designed with exposures on two sides, and each feature floor-to-ceiling closets with sliding doors. The hall and bedrooms are unified by extending the wall-to-wall carpeting to these areas, and by repetition of the soft colors derived from the living room.

There is no waste space in this well-planned home, all of the areas are clearly defined and spacious. This is a home especially prized for a wonderful living scheme in a delightful atmosphere of serenity.

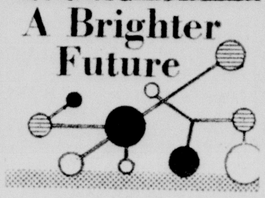
A Brighter Future



Almost every day, research into the medical use of radioactive isotopes is making new and heartening discoveries to help in mankind's age-old fight against disease. TO THE MOON NON-STOP

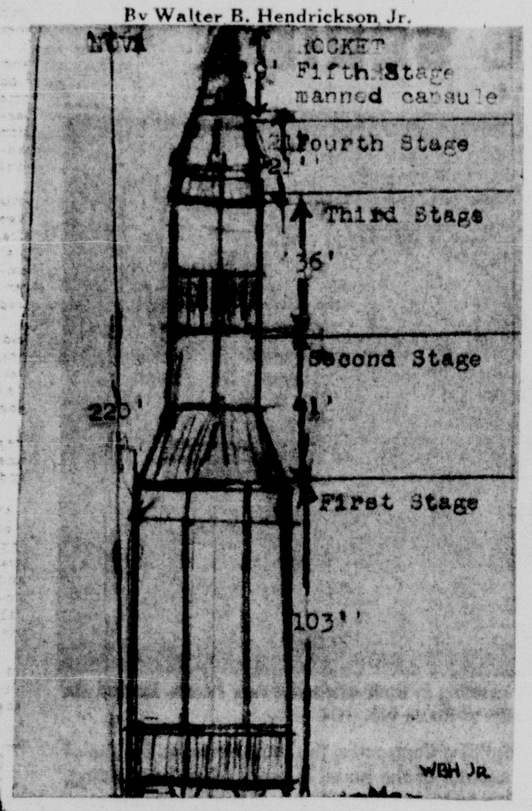
By Walter B. Hendrickson Jr.



The NASA is working on plans for a rocket, called the Nova, to take 8,000 pounds of pay-load, including two men, to the moon and back without stopping to refuel in orbit.

This system, called direct flight, would save fuel because only one rocket would be needed instead of two or three, as in the refueling system. To refuel a rocket in orbit one or two tanker rockets are needed as well as the rocket that's going to the moon.

The Nova is a five stage rocket 220 feet high and 44 feet wide at the base. It weighs 6,700,000 pounds.

The first stage is a cluster of seven fuel tanks and six 1,500,000 lbs. thrust engines, and it stands 103 feet high. This stage weighs 2,000,000 pounds when empty and 5,000,000 pounds when fueled with liquid oxygen and kerosene.

The first stage rises straight up for 10 seconds then turns toward the place where the moon will be when the fourth stage reaches it two and a half days later. The first stage continues to fire for two minutes and 15 seconds more then separates and drops back to earth to be re-used, after carrying the rocket to 35 miles.

When the first stage has separated, the second takes over pushing the rocket which now weighs 1,700,000 pounds. The second weighs 678,000 pounds empty and 1,100,000 pounds when its four tanks are filled with the liquid oxygen and kerosene that power its 1,500,000 pound thrust engine. The engine and tanks make the second stage 41 feet long.

The second stage's motor fires for two minutes and 57 seconds and gives the rocket a speed of 15,800 feet-per-second or about 1,080 miles-per-hour. When the second stage burns out and drops off the third stage takes over.

Third Stage

The third stage is a cluster of four tanks which contain liquid oxygen and liquid hydrogen and four engines, which develop a total of 600,000 pounds thrust. This stage is 36 feet long and weighs 146,000 pounds empty and 498,000 pounds fueled. The remaining three stages of the rocket weigh 600,000 pounds as the third stage starts.

The third stage of the Nova fires almost parallel to the earth's surface at 150 miles altitude until the rocket reaches a speed of 23,827 miles-per-hour—enough to get it to the moon. Then the cone-shape fourth and fifth stages separate and coast on toward the moon.

We'll tell you about Nova Lands on the Moon next time.

What Do You Think?

By Jerry Lawless

Why Be Good?

I should be good because people depend on me. If I do right, I will be able to carry out the action in a way that will make one proud of myself.

I should be good because I influence the lives of others. I have been told that everyone is looked up to by someone else. I believe that this is true.

I must, then, weigh my actions carefully to be sure that the people respecting me, especially those younger than myself, will not be swayed from the paths of truth and goodness.

I am not saying that any one will be influenced into being a perfectly good person because there is no perfectly good person.

I should be good because I have to live with myself.

Why do you think we should be good?

Story Of Rubber

By Jerry Lawless

Exciting Find

The story has been told many times that Columbus found rubber on the island of Haiti during his second voyage to America, but this story is questioned.

It is certain, however, that Spanish explorers found it in Mexico about the year 1521. They saw it used by the native Indians in various ways and saw it obtained as a milky liquid which flowed from a strange tree when the bark was cut.

Because of an Indian idea that the tree wept when they were tapped, the inhabitants called it "Caoutchouc" which meant "weeping tree."

But the thing that startled and fascinated those Spanish explorers was the fact that the native Indians made bouncing balls of this material. White men had never before seen a solid substance that would bound away from another solid material when thrown against it. The Indians played a game that might seem a cross between our football and polio game with these balls.

The native Indians found other and more practical uses for the milky substance from the rubber tree. How long they had used rubber no one knows, but in the activities of their crude and primitive life they had found a material that was destined to become a vital part in the development of modern civilization.

It is true that the rubber found in Mexico and other nearby countries was of inferior quality, and that the best rubber grew in the jungles of Brazil, but the discovery of its use by the natives of Mexico first brought it to the attention of the civilized nations.

Goodyear's Discovery

More than four hundred years have passed since the Spanish explorers brought back word of this strange substance. In the three centuries that followed, very little was done with it. In 1839, however, while his patient wife was out driving a bargain for food, for they were very poor, Charles Goodyear as usual was in the kitchen compounding and mixing, kneading and rolling his sticky mass of rubber. In some manner, he dropped a cupfull of it on top of the hot stove.

To his eager amazement, he discovered that the rubber had not melted but had only charred. He later named this process vulcanization (after Vulcan, the Roman God of fire).

This was the start of the great rubber era because without vulcanization the rubber would become soft and sticky in the heat of summer and brittle in cold weather.

Let's Go Birdin'

It Happened Again

By Emma Mae Leonhard

It happened again on one of the hottest days of August. This time a birder from Ohio was a guest in Jacksonville and called to inquire whether we could help her find our famous European Tree Sparrows.

She was a good enough birder to understand that we couldn't guarantee finding the bird, especially in such heat.

We set out about 9:30 a.m. and drove along the road bordering Diamond Grove cemetery where we often had seen as many as a dozen on the fence and the shrubbery. We found none.

We searched in the cemetery, but located only the chattering English Sparrows. Hopefully our Ohio guest though that she saw one sparrow that wore a brown crown and showed a large spot on the white patch behind its eyes. We were doubtful about it, however.

Wanting to make certain that she really saw the bird, we set out for the spot near Nichols Park where we often had good luck. It was here that the Chicago birders had enjoyed a flock of at least twenty Tree Sparrows in a small tree near the road, and they are still talking about their bird treat. But we found none.

Undaunted, with perspiration running down our faces, we drove on to the barn lot of George Lukeman's farm on Route 67, parked our car, and walked the short distance to the top of the hill, from which he gazed at the trees, the bushes, and the brush pile near the pond. We had always succeeded in finding these sparrows there.

The Red-headed Woodpecker performed beautifully for us; two Flickers swooped from tree to tree; two Song Sparrows defied the heat with their musical song; several pair of Barn Swallows flew in and out of the barn; feeding their young; and English Sparrows were chirping everywhere.

Where Is Sparrow?

But where were the European Tree Sparrows? Disappointed but not discouraged, we returned to the car to seek another spot.

Just as we were opening the doors of our car, we heard a hoarse "Trck, teck."

"There is one flying over-head," we advised. But it kept on flying.

Then, as we turned to enter the car, a lone sparrow flew near us and perched on a wire. "Teck teck," it said.

"Here it is!" everyone exclaimed.

Yes, there sat another life bird for the Ohio birder, the European Tree Sparrow. And there sat the bird that has brought several visitors to Jacksonville.

What did your grandmother use to say? "Try try again, and you'll succeed at last." This statement may be trite, but it is often a fact—even in the bird-watching game.

My CARDINAL

By Mabel Hall Goltra

My Gallant little red-bird
While flying in his plane,
Came down to stop and see me,
To get a bit of grain.

His landing field was ready,
Today it was my pump:
Perhaps this time tomorrow
T'will be the nearest stump.

He stopped there just a moment,
A moment full of glee,
The very spirit in him
Put spirit into me.

A blithsome bird of color,
A bundle of delight;
A mite of heavenly beauty
From morning until night.

MY TRIP TO SPRINGFIELD

On our treasure hunt we saw a black cat,
A green shirt, a red skirt, this and that.
When we got to Springfield we saw Lincoln's Home
And also the Capitol with its big dome.
We ate our lunch in a nice, big park,
Everyone was feeling happy as a lark.
Around the Senotaph were some banners
Here, everyone really minded their manners.
Everyone had a lot of fun
But man, oh man, that roasting sun!

Girls Like To Sew

By Mrs. Otto Dorr

Part 1: New Rugs

Julie sat on the lawn sewing long thin pieces together, what could they make? Her playmates trotted across the grass to ask "What will that be?"

"I am going to have a new rug for my room," she answered.

"Oh," Lela remembered, "My grandmother had a whole rag carpet for her little bedroom. It was pretty when it was new; we took off our shoes at the doorway to be certain not to soil it."

"Do you know how to sew carpet rags?" Julie looked up at her two friends.

"I do," May said. "Let's go home and get some, I want a rug too."

May hunted for her mother, but the house was empty so she ran next door. "Is my mother here, I need some carpet rags."

"I want to sew too," Minnie answered and hurried off to tell Florence, and farther down the block to Alma's house.

Minnie was the first to come back with a basket full of torn strips waiting to be sewn. Then Alma came with a tight roll of pretty apron lengths her mother had saved, but timidly stopping at the edge of the group stood Florence.

"What's in your bundle?" Lela asked. "I guess you brought your doll." Minnie pulled at the paper covering but it did not break.

Florence held it closely and turned to Julie, "All we have at our house are overalls, will they make a rug?"

"Oh they will make a blue one, ever so strong. Hurry up and begin cutting," Julie encouraged.

Last of all came May, "Will my little brother's corduroy rompers do?" And she spilled out an armfull of blue, pink, red, grey and brown ones.

"Cut off the belts and buckles," Alma advised, "you will have a soft rug."

Cutting, tearing, and sewing, carpet rag piles grew tall while ravellings and scraps fluttered aside.

Squeak, squeak, squeak, down the walk pedaled little brother Trott on his tricycle. He pushed it across the soft grass toward the group of girls. There sat his sister cutting and tearing his worn rompers into strips.

"I am making a rug of them," she told him.

"Is it for me?" No one answered.

Local Club One Of Many In Worldwide Organization

The Soroptimist Club of Jacksonville is now a part of the gigantic Soroptimist International Association. This is a worldwide unit of classified service clubs for professional and executive business women.

The first club was organized in 1921 in Oakland, California; the first in England was in the year 1923 in Greater Long and another formed in 1924 in Paris, France. Since 1924 clubs have been organized in Alaska, Australia, Austria, Belgium, Brazil, Canada, Denmark, England, Finland, France, Germany, Greece, Hawaii, Ireland, Israel, Italy, Luxembourg, Mexico, Netherlands, New Zealand, Norway, Panama, Peru, Scotland, Southern Rhodesia, Sweden, Switzerland, Turkey, Union of South Africa, this country, Uruguary and other nations. The International Federation membership numbers over thirty-five thousand.

Membership in Soroptimist is by invitation only and limited to women engaged in professions, or as heads of deputies in government positions, or as executives of established businesses.

Only one woman from a classification is eligible. She must be actively engaged in her business or profession, maintain high standards of personal and business ethics and be a true representative of her classification.

The strict rules governing eligibility and care in selecting members assure affiliation with leading executive and professional women.

Quality, not numbers, is a cardinal principle of this organization, and an invitation to membership is a recognition of leadership.

Soroptimist clubs serve society in four areas of activity: International Goodwill and Understanding; Public Affairs; Community Service and sponsorship of Venture Clubs, a service club for young business and professional women.

Each club determines its own course and selects its own projects within the framework of convention adopted policies, programs and laws.

Soroptimist is not a secret organization, nor does it attempt to supplant or to interfere with any religious or political organization. The high ideals of Soroptimism imply loyality to one's own citizenship and religion.

Last Sunday two of the officers of the Soroptimist Club of Jacksonville attended a tea at the home of Katherine Martini in St. Louis, Mo. honoring the Governor of South Central Region, American Federation of Soroptimist Clubs.

President Lucille Lair and corresponding secretary Ethel Chapman were among several hundred present representing officers of Soroptimists clubs in the St. Louis, East St. Louis and Alton area.

New Post Office Site At Virginia Is Under Option

The lot is located directly west of the Graves residence and measures 40 by 120 feet.

Under the present set up, someone will have to build the building according to government specifications, and rent the structure to the Post Office department.

122 APPLE PIES BAKED BY LEGION POST AUXILIARY

HARDIN — Nineteen members of the American Legion Auxiliary met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Whitworth near Hardin, where they made 122 apple pies which were frozen, to be baked fresh for the Calhoun Apple Festival and Fair which is scheduled to take place this weekend in Hardin.

This plan of making the pies ahead of time has been in operation for several years, and each year the Whitworths have opened their home for the event.

Other members of the organization also donate pies at the time of the festival, as do many non-members in the community, and thus the women are assured of having plenty of pies for the visitors.

WAYS WITH WINDOWS

Much of the success of a room—any room—depends to a large extent on what is done with the windows. Window treatments should be planned to control daylight and glare, to give privacy when needed, and to enhance the overall decorative scheme of the room. It goes without saying that they must conform to the style of the room and its furnishings.

Regardless of the style of your room — Modern, Traditional or Provincial — the trend today in window treatments is toward a look of openness and a spacious feeling. As a nation we have the reputation of being outdoor lovers, and as a result we treat our windows in a manner that will admit as much of the outdoors as possible into our rooms.

The attractive window treatment shown in the sketch above was planned to take advantage of the view. The room, being Provincial in style, called for rather homespun fabric to fit the style. Heavy, closely-woven cotton crash in natural color was used generously to give a rich effect. Gathered valance is bright colored cotton print.

Note how the arrangement of the long low table flanked at ends of comfortable lounge chairs draws window treatment and furniture into one planned unit and makes this Provincial room an expression of today's living.

Whether your home is new or old, large or small, Contemporary or Provincial, our trained decorators can tell you how to give it added charm with the right window treatments. You are most welcome to come in and discuss your furnishing and decorating problems—anytime.

As I See It

by E. W. BROWN

The cigarette makers have really been working lately to find new ways to peddle their products. A fellow with a tatoo on his hand becomes an expert in the taste of hot tobacco . . . and another fellow who is really a chicken plucker, but enjoys doing brain surgery on the side, plugs for a "thinking man's" smoke. Now the researchers are testing cigarettes with flavors like apple blossom, rum, cinnamon and carnation. One manufacturer is sampling a cigarette that has no tars, nicotine, arsenic or tobacco. It's made of nine different vegetable fibers. If they get around to making them with corn silk and newspaper they ought to do a great business with fellows who remember their first smoke behind the barn.

A fellow who was picked up by police in Fresno, Calif., protested, "I am an unemployed smoke signal sender". Apparently they didn't get his message. If you're having any kind of trouble with your car then we have an important message for you from our service manager. He says to drive your car in, or phone us to haul it in if it won't run, and our expert mechanics will do the best auto repair job for you that you've ever had . . . at reasonable prices, too. E. W. Brown, 406 South Main. Phone 5-4333.

SEAL STUDY

JUNEAU, Alaska (AP)—Tests on a mummified seal carcass found in the South Polar regions disclosed the animal died between 1,600 and 2,000 years ago, instead of just 100 years ago as it was first believed.

The remains were from one of 90 mummified seals counted near McMurdo Sound in Antarctica in 1957-58.

TAKING NO CHANCES

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—Maj. Gen. John B. Medaris, chief of the Army Ballistic Missile Agency, is known to newsmen here for his snappishness, and for his ready wit.

Recently, Cape reporters noticed an elephant staked out in front of a business house as a publicity stunt.

At a press conference later, Medaris was asked if the Army planned to put the elephant in orbit.

"No," Medaris said without hesitation. "If we did that, the Democrats would demand equal time in the air."

Fur Trim For Corduroy

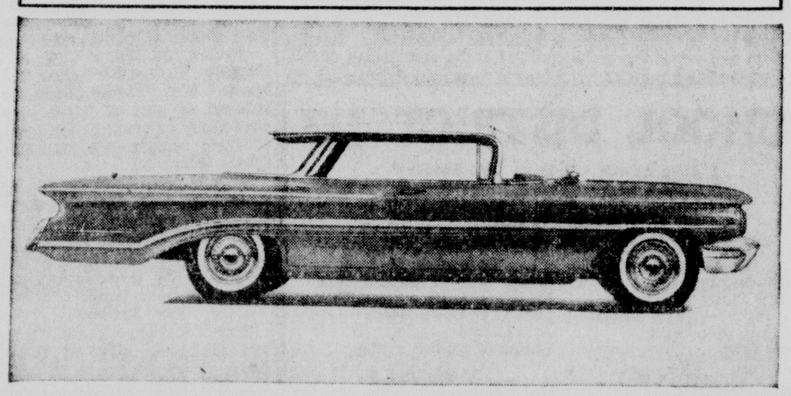
Clean Lines Highlight 1960 Oldsmobile



A trim balanced design of clean flowing lines highlight the modern styling of the Oldsmobile for 1960. This side view of the "98" Holiday SportSedan shows off the smooth, uncluttered lines to their best advantage. The low and level design of the hood affords better forward visibility and the rounded contour of the front fenders aids parking maneuverability. The low-level design also is incorporated in the expansive "Clean-Sweep" rear deck. SportSedan body styles also are available in the Dynamic "88" and the Super "88" series Oldsmobiles for 1960.

Since 1945 Japan's Dentsu Has Become One Of World's Top Ten In Advertising

TOKYO (AP)—He doesn't wear gray flannel suits; he doesn't drink martinis. And he doesn't even have an expense account.

But he knows his "mah-keh-ching" and his "pah-bu-re-ku-re-ray-shons" — the American terms "marketing" and "public relations" for which there were no Japanese equivalents when the Dentsu advertising firm started several years ago to pattern itself after the giants of Madison Avenue.

With this knowledge he and hundreds like him since the war have built Dentsu into one of the world's top 10 agencies and the largest anywhere outside the United States.

Dentsu's billings now exceed a 100 million dollars a year.

Dentsu handles anything—from department stores to drugs, electronics to costmetics, toothpaste to musical instruments, machinery to whisky.

Until 1945 Japanese thought so little of advertising that radio commercials were unheard of, and the outright extolling of a product via the written word was regarded the height of bad taste.

Then came a conversion from a wartime to peacetime economy, the impact of American influences and the growth of a middle class consumer group.

Japan's national advertising expenditure in 1947 was $4,050,000. By 1958 it had zoomed to 296 million dollars — a 70-fold increase but still short of the 302 million that the largest American agency alone billed that year, Dentsu officials point out.

In 1957, the latest year for which comparative figures are available, Japan spent 1.13 per cent of her national income on advertising; the United States 3 per cent.

Of Japan's expenditure, Dentsu—with its 2,500 employes and 24 offices throughout Japan—handled about 35 per cent. The rest was divided among some 350 much smaller agencies.

VERSAILLES — Mrs. Sam Crowell entertained the local home bureau unit in her home Thursday afternoon. Mrs. Horace Patterson presented the lesson concerning the 'blood program'. Mrs. Wayne Sides gave the minor lesson, "Canned Fruits and Salads."

During most of the past year or so, consumers have spent about 21 per cent of their total disposable incomes for food. Disposable income means what's left over after income taxes are paid.

According to a recent survey in Texas, newspapers are read by 95% of all homeowners, by 85% of all renters, by 97% of upper income households, by 91% of older householders and by 93% of younger householders. You can reach practically everyone, when you advertise in the daily newspaper.

The vice-president of a Philadelphia advertising agency said, "The newspaper has become so integral a part of everday living that we don't realize its true importance until some act deprives us of it. The oldest means of mass communication has yet to be confronted with a substitute. No other medium has served so well for so many years."

BEARSKIN FOR BRITISH

BALTIMORE (AP) — The skin of a bear killed near downtown Baltimore may some day be riding atop the head of a sentry at Buckingham Palace.

The bear was cornered and killed by Baltimore police last June.

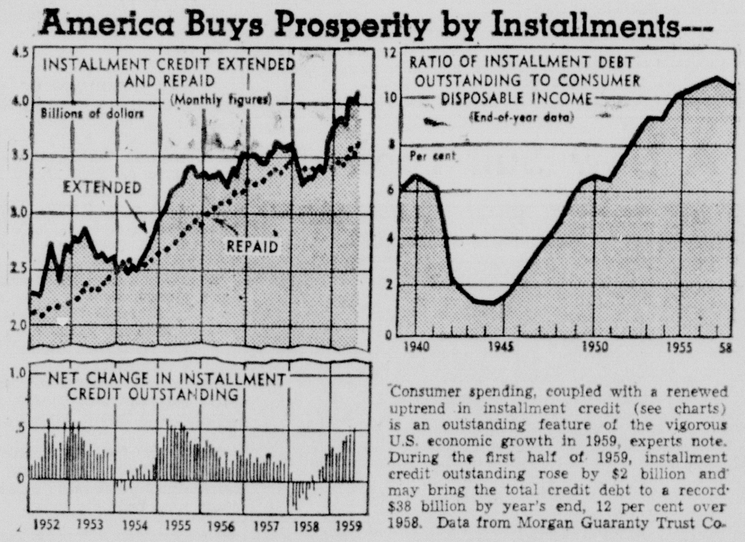
Not long afterward there was a bit of a fuss in London about the condition of some of the bearskin caps worn by the Brigade of Guards which patrols the palace.

So Tommy Dukehart, a radio executive, is having the skin tanned and will send it to England, with the suggestion it be cut up for new caps.

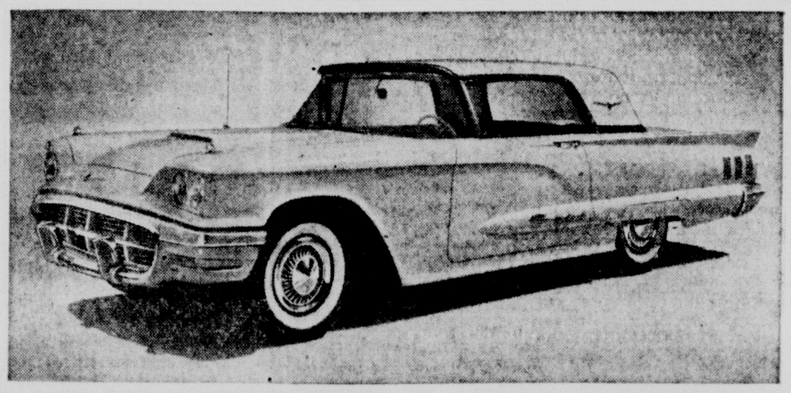
Striking quality differences in seed wheat used by Illinois wheat growers were reported from a survey of 602 farms in 29 counties. This survey indicated that, while most farmers were using good seed, some were still planting low-germinating and impure seed. Only 12 percent were using certified seed.

Americans spent $75,000,000,000 for food in 1958. Food and grocery advertisers invested $148,966,000 in daily newspapers last year to tell consumers about their products.

America Buys Prosperity by Installments---



Consumer spending, coupled with a renewed uptrend in installment credit (see charts) is an outstanding feature of the vigorous U.S. economic growth in 1959, experts note. During the first half of 1959, installment credit outstanding rose by $2 billion and may bring the total credit debt to a record $38 billion by year's end, 12 per cent over 1958. Data from Morgan Guaranty Trust Co.



A COMPLETELY RESTYLED GRILLE highlights the distinctive front-end changes and crisp styling of the 1960 Thunderbird hardtop, which will go on display in Ford dealer showrooms on October 8. Every appointment of the new Thunderbird has been refined, and, in addition, two major innovations are being introduced — an optional sliding "sun roof" panel and a completely automatic soft top on the convertible model.

Church Men's Rally

A Men's Rally has been slated at Virden for Oct. 27, a dinner meeting of men from the West Central District of the Christian churches of that area. Locally, reservations may be made with the West Central District president of the CMF, Clayton Orrill, who will preside at the Virden meeting.

At National GOP Meet

Mrs. Albert E. Powers attended the board of directors meeting and the Indiana, Illinois and Ohio regional meeting of the National Federation of Republican Women held at the French Lick Sheraton hotel, French Lick, Ind., last week. Mrs. Powers is state recording secretary of the Illinois Federation of Republican Women, president of the Manchester Women's Republican Study Club, and past president of the Greene County Women's Republican Club.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Hampton, Grand Junction, Colo.; and Mr. and Mrs. James Jones and son, Gordon, Springfield, were recent visitors in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Irvin Jones, north of Roodhouse.

William Harms spent the weekend with his family in Evansville, Ind. The Harms family will move to Roodhouse when their residence property in Evansville is sold.

Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Markwell spent the weekend in Mexico, Mo., where Mr. Markwell put on the work for a candidate in the Masonic lodge Saturday night for the third degree. They attended a basket dinner Sunday at a country church near Louisiana, Mo., where he met many of his relatives. En route home they stopped in Pearl Sunday to visit her only sister who is recently home from hospitalization and is improving in health.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Lee Hopkins and Mr. and Mrs. W. Clyde Hopkins visited in Springfield Tuesday with the latter's daughter, Mrs. W. Clyde Kinser.

A great advantage of daily newspapers for advertisers is the ease and convenience with which they can be read by prospects. Newspapers "keep" till chores and work are done, and can be read at leisure. This is particularly important if an advertiser wants to reach the nation's 22,000,000 working women — who are not often free to hear radio and TV messages.

One of the first women journalists was Anne Royall, who scooped her collegues by interviewing Potomac - swimming President John Quincy Adams while sitting on his clothes. Today, both newspapers — and readers — benefit from the work and writings of women in practically every branch of journalism.

BUSY SUMMER

NEW YORK (AP)—The 1959 summer theater season has been the busiest for actors in the history of Equity, the performing union.

At the peak of the period, 4,500 professionals were employed, compared to the previous record of 4,200 in 1958. During an average winter week about 3,000 actors are engaged.

According to a recent survey, newspaper advertising influences purchasing most. 81% of the people made purchases because of newspaper ads, only 4% because of television. The same survey showed that only 1% found advertising in newspapers objectionable, while 16% disliked advertising on television and 45% objected to direct mail.

Hold Reception At Hardin For New Teachers

HARDIN, Ill. —Seven new teachers in the Unit 40 school system were honored at a reception Tuesday night at the school cafeteria in Hardin. Introduced to the 75 guests at the affair by Unit Superintendent L. V. Kinser were the following: Arthur Clark, principal of the high school; Mrs. Margaret Raich, commercial teacher; Miss Gertrude Herrick, English instructor; and Mrs. Kincheloe Harris, Spanish teacher, all in the high school at Hardin; James Smith, 8th grade teacher in the Hardin Grade Attendance Center and James Churchman and Thomas Richardson of the Kampsville Grade Attendance Center.

Following the introductions, the honored guests formed a reception line and met each individual present. A "get acquainted" game was led by James Ringhausen, Hardin grade school principal and assistant unit superintendent, after which Dan Thomas, music director of the unit, led group singing. The evening's entertainment was climaxed by two trumpet solos by Mr. Thomas, accompanied by Mrs. Jim Lorsbach, office secretary.

The reception was sponsored by the board of education, and at the close of the evening refreshments were served by the wives of the board members and unit superintendent. Refreshment tables were appropriately decorated with a fall theme.

U.S. and Canadian families are expected to spend more than $8,000,000,000 for new appliances this year — 10% more than in 1958. To reach these buyers, manufacturers of housing equipment and supplies spent more than $28,297,000 in daily newspapers last year.

In Hollywood

By JAMES BACON
AP Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Juliet Prowse, a long-stemmed beauty from South Africa, says there must be a man shortage in America else bobby-soxers wouldn't scream at Elvis, Ricky et al.

Juliet is making her movie debut in "Can-Can" opposite Frank Sinatra who made a few bobby-soxers squeal in his time.

"When I was a teen-ager in Johannesburg," says the red-haired dancer, "none of us ever gave out with the slightest sound at any singer. It just isn't done there."

South Africa has no man shortage, she avers. Since leaving there, she has danced all over Europe.

"England has a man shortage — and they squeal at their singers there. The same in West Germany. I heard little, if any, squealing in Paris, Rome or Madrid where men are plentiful."

Juliet, 23, is the movies' newest Cinderella girl—and she owes it all to a Christmas card. Hermes Pan, dance director of "Can-Can," was in Rome last year and saw Juliet dance in a show.

He later told a reporter he considered her one of the world's best feminine dancers.

"Hermes told me to keep in touch with him," recalls Juliet. So when Christmas came and her work took her to Madrid, she dropped him a greeting with her new address.

Barrie Chase, Fred Astaire's dancing partner, originally was slated for the part Juliet now has. When Barrie withdrew from the cast, Hermes touted Juliet to producer Jack Cummings.

She was brought over for a screen test, got the part and a contract with 20th Century-Fox.

Cummings says she is one of the most exciting new talents to hit Hollywood since Miss MacLaine herself.

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — When teen-age idol Dick Clark danced with Victoria Shaw during a scene in "Because They're Young," it was the first time he had danced in more than a year.

Dick and his wife used to dance quite often until he appeared on the Arthur Murray TV show. He won the jitterbug contest. He was told to appear in the finals against Cesar Romero.

He spent the next two weeks taking lessons. He lost anyway to Romero. But the new style of dancing he learned from Arthur Murray had an aftermath at home. His wife couldn't follow him.

Here are two new versions of the fall suit from the current Paris collections. Suit in black-and-gray houndstooth check wool has big balloon sleeves and a high, round collarless neckline. It's cinched in at the waist by wide self-belt. This is a Jules Crahay design for Nina Ricci. The new longer jacketed sheath suit (right), as done by Pierre Balmain, has slight fit at the waistline. Fabric is a bright turquoise-and-mauve star-checked wool. — By GAILE DUGAS. NEA Women's Edi—

Fabulous Furs From Paris Showings

Fabrics Gain New Importance, Too

Fur is all-important in the new Paris collections. It is used on fabric; it is also used in combination with contrasting fur. And, of course, it appears in coats and wraps of every kind and in hats of great chic. We show here fur designs from the house of Revillon. Young coat (left) in pastel beige Brazilian river otter has wide collar of fluffy beige fox. Coat buttons down front; is belted low. The new violet mink (center) is shown in a coat of great elegance. It is cut with wide collar and full, elbow-length sleeves. Simple gray tweed dress (right) has front skirt panel trimmed with six huge buttons. It's worn with brow-level toque of gathered mink. The mink hat idea is an excellent one for the woman who doesn't want to dent her budget with a mink jacket or stole.

BY ROSETTE HARGROVE,
NEA Staff Correspondent

PARIS—(NEA)—Furs and fabrics take on an added interest in the collections here. Their importance is pointed up in a season when silhoutte has not undergone drastic changes.

This is a big season for fur and fur trim of all types. Naturally, there's a lavish use of mink but the fur story doesn't stop there. Red, beige and black fox, gray squirrel, broadtail, leopard, wolverine and lynx all come in for their share of the limelight.

Newest of the mink shades is one called violet which actually has a mauve cast.

Both fur and fabric coats get fur linings. But fur is used for giant collars, for front trim and for hats, too.

Fabrics this year look thick and bulky but really are featherweight. Thus suits and coats cut from them will be both light and warm. There are many shaded coatings, dramatically beautiful.

Crepe has made a comeback in both silk and wool and is used for draped dresses and for those with bloused tops.

Wool jersey is a favorite again in both ribbed and plain versions.

Tweed takes off from black-and white to become red with green, turquoise with moss green and violet with orange. These startling color combinations are done in heavily nubbed and checked tweeds.

Broadcloth is back in both dress and coat weights. For coats, this fabric takes on a thick, velvety look rather than the satiny gleam of the past.

THE STORY: Already the deadly plague, brought into Mexico by smugglers, has started taking its toll of lives. Ross Mallory and Cloris Howard, with the U.S. border services, and Colonel Aguilar, a Mexican official, are trying to catch the smugglers and check the spread of the disease.

* * *

XVII

Francisco Montijo was patriarchal, shrunken of body but dignified in his bearing, with a stern leathery face that gave no hint of his grief. To their surprise, he made no objection when informed of the reason for their presence.

"It was the spirits of darkness," Montijo said. "All night I fought with them but their magic was stronger than mine. The spell would not lift. I failed my grandson."

"It wasn't a spell, Senor Montijo. Don't blame yourself."

"I brewed flea tea," Montijo continued as if he hadn't heard. "When that failed, I resorted to the strongest charm of all." He went on to relate how he had stuffed an egg down a snake's throat and beaten it until he had an omelet which he mixed with burned owl feathers. But the boy had been too far gone to eat it. Cloris listened with morbid fascination in the recital, given as matter of factly as any physician might describe the treatment he had administered. Tea brewed from fleas, she thought, the most common plague carrier of all. Not that it would have made any difference, probably. The disease struck children down so quickly.

Montijo was saying, "It was only afterward that I discovered it and knew why my simple magic was powerless."

"It?" Cloris asked sharply.

Montijo pointed a long bony finger at one corner of the hut. At first, she thought it was a doll but when she looked closer, she realized it was not. It was, instead, an elongated metal statuette unlike any she could recall seeing. Certainly not Mexican in origin, it was a warrior of some sort, holding high a spear. "Where did this come from?"

"It is a demon and it came here to catch Juanito. It hid itself very cleverly among his belongings, knowing that I must not discover its presence until it was too late."

Cloris frowned at the exotic figuring, trying to establish a connection she felt sure must exist. A dead boy and a strange idol—what was the link between them and the smugglers? Suddenly, it made sense. The cargo, the mysterious crates packed with straw . . . Somehow, Juan Montijo had come into possession of a portion of the contraband. She said, "I'd like to take the demon with me."

Montijo shrugged. "As you wish. It has done its work here. I know that I soon will go to join my grandson." He sat down slowly on his petate, legs folded beneath him, head bowed as if awaiting his fate.

Cloris studied him a moment, seeking a comforting phrase but not able to find any. She removed her scarf and carefully wrapped the little idol in it, scanty protection, but better than nothing.

* * *

Mallory was finding it good to be alive. It had been a long time since he had taken any great satisfaction just from living. But today he rode the decrepit old burro like a knight's charger and he smelled the air, enjoying the damp fragrance, and now and then he broke into cheerful whistling.

The tide was ebbing and Mallory was surprised to discover the great heaps of flotsam deposited at the high water mark. He had heard of a certain section of Baja California's shoreline that served as the ocean's dumping ground, where a conjunction of currents deposited the refuse of the Pacific. Mallory wondered if this was the spot. Certainly, it could be. Wooden crates, bottles, swab-handles, curved and spike-studded planks from all sizes of boats, a life-ring, oil drums, barnacled timbers, a coconut, a waterlogged cushion, a jet plane's wing-tank.

A glint of light caught his eye. He dimounted and picked up the object, a hollow glass ball smaller than his fist, a float from a fisherman's net. Long exposure to sun and sea had turned the clear glass iridescent, as softly lustrous as mother-of-pearl. Mallory turned the pretty bauble over and over, admiring the play of colors. It occurred to him that perhaps Cloris would care to have it—it was the sort of odd attractive item she might like—and he nearly put it in his pocket for this reason.

He suddenly felt a desire to surrender completely, to ride back to the village immediately and give the bauble to Cloris, just to see what she'd say about it. And though he had found no trace of the smugglers, the glass ball made the day not a complete loss.

* * *

Colonel Aguilar's vigil was made the more galling by the suspicion that it would prove fruitless.

At first, the afternoon had gone rapidly because he was busy. On the bank above the rock cairn and a short distance downwind from it, Auguilar built a blind, a shelter of brush and tree branches, to serve as concealment. By the middle of the afternoon, he had worked out range, elevation and windage for all approaches, and had gone through a dozen dry runs of the operation.

There was, however, one thing lacking and that was a target at the other end of his rifle. The more he had time to think about it, the more Aguilar realized that this was far from a sure thing.

There is nothing remarkable about South's six no-trump contract and he has no problems in the play. No opening lead can bother him. After knocking out the ace of diamonds he has seven club tricks, three diamond tricks and two aces for a total of 12.

Six clubs also makes but a club lead will defeat six diamonds and if the diamonds were divided four-one a diamond opening would also beat six clubs so no-trump is the superior contract.

There are lots of ways to reach that spot but the Jacoby transfer seems to work out best.

North's two spade response to the opening no-trump is the club transfer and demands that South bid three clubs. North's three diamond bid forces to game and shows a two suiter of some sort and South's raise to four diamonds shows both a good no-trump and four diamonds.

North's four no-trump is Blackwood and his six club bid normal. At this point South bids six no-trump. Obviously North is very short in the major suits but South can handle either a spade or heart opening and he has the fillers for North's minor suits.

Jacks Lose, 14-7; Tigers And Routt Rockets Post Triumphs

Riverview Marches 67 Yards In Final Period To Beat Jacks

By Stan Spotts

Riverview Gardens of St. Louis drove 67 yards in six plays and scored with 25 seconds remaining to nudge Jacksonville High Friday night at the Athletic Field before a small turnout, 14-7.

The Rams consumed time and yardage in the second, third and fourth quarters. After Jacksonville had taken a 7-0 lead on a 34-yard pass play from Dick Parker to Gary Spangenberg in the first quarter, the winners took over on a punt situation on their own 39 with 7:49 left before halftime. Seventeen plays in the next seven minutes and eight seconds brought Riverview a two yard TD from fullback Roger Kuhn with 41 seconds left in the second stanza. Kuhn also booted the point after.

Leads to JHS Tally

Of Jacksonville's 15 plays in the first half, three were punts. Riverview elected to punt from their own 46 after a first down drive bogged down and this eventually led to a Jacksonville TD. The snap from center was high on the punt attempt and the center of the JHS line smothered the punter and it was Jacksonville's ball on Riverview's 36. Erland Thady picked up two yards and then QB Dick Parker hit Gary Spangenberg with a 20-yard aerial toss and Spangenberg scooted the remaining 14 yards unmolested. Parker converted with 1:54 left and Jacksonville had its only lead.

Same Situation

The third quarter saw Riverview in possession of the ball throughout the period as Bob Kraushaar's Crimsons got off only four running plays, two passes and two Spangenberg punts. The Rams took over on a punt on their own 48 with 1:47 left in the third quarter and drove to the Jacksonville 43 before the period ended. Counting the remaining time Riverview had consumed in the third chapter and for 5:32 in the final quarter, they had killed seven minutes and 19 seconds with the ball in 16 plays. This drive carried them to the Jacksonville four before the Jacks could rebound and take over on downs on their own four with 6:28 left in the game.

Inspired Attack

Norton covered 21 yards on the first play from the four to get the brief attack rolling. Spangenberg got another first down and QB Dick Parker covered 26 yards on a pitchout lateral that moved the ball to Riverview's 42. The Jacks lost their bid when they failed to cover the necessary yardage on Riverview's 33 and the Rams took over with 2:16 left. Of the 67 yards, Kuhn pulled off two beautiful double reverses for a total of 55 yards. On the sixth play from scrimmage, Kuhn plowed over from the 1½ yard stripe and booted the point after touchdown for the 14-7 margin of victory.

At times, Jacksonville's defense looked good but Riverview struck more quickly and that was the deciding factor.

It was Riverview's second victory without defeat while the loss was Jacksonville's second in as many starts.

The Crimsons got off a total of 35 plays of which five were punts and six were passes. The one completion was JHS' touchdown. Riverview had 14 first downs to Jacksonville's four and outgained JHS rushing, 191-110. The Rams tried three passes and connected on two for 22 yards.

ENCEPHALITIS IN KOREA

SEOUL, South Korea (AP)—The Health Ministry said Saturday 1,724 cases of encephalitis have been reported in South Korea since the first case was diagnosed in early August. The report said 439 deaths have been charged to the sleeping sickness, while only 228 full recoveries have been reported.

ACTION IN JHS-RIVERVIEW CONTEST

Tackle Bob Rieman (left) of JHS goes Rodeo in throwing this 'little dogie' from Riverview Gardens of St. Louis Friday night at the Athletic Field.

The picture to the right shows the winning Riverview TD being scored with 25 seconds remaining in the contest that broke a 7-7 tie and gave the Rams a 14-7 win.

Friday Night Scores

Jerseyville 21 Bethalto 6

JERSEYVILLE — Tackle Dave Gardner recovered a blocked kick and turned it into a 10 yard touchdown in the first quarter to get Joe Jurkanin's Panthers off to a 21-6 win over Bethalto Friday night.

Roger Gross journeyed 49 yards for the second TD in the initial stanza and Buel Smith plunged for both extra points.

A pass from Autery to Hall got Bethalto in high gear in the second chapter and Tom Hall climaxed the scoring drive from the 22.

Roger Gross ended Jerseyville scoring in the second quarter with a 64-yard dash on an end run. Bob Gross added the PAT. It was Jerseyville's 2nd win against no setbacks.

Jerseyville	14	7	0	0	21
Bethalto	0	6	0	0	6

Virginia 13 Triopia 0

ARENZVILLE — Virginia won its second game straight by defeating Arenzville who has two losses with no wins. Butch Marr scored the first touchdown of the game on a 51-yard run around left end the second time Virginia had possession of the ball in the first quarter. Rich Webster plunged over the line to add the extra point and Virginia went ahead by the score of seven to zero. Up to the half it was a defensive battle with neither team scoring in the second quarter. Anderson of Triopia made a forty yard run which almost was a TD before being pulled down by Reg Velton of Virginia. The third quarter was scoreless with both teams putting up a good defensive battle.

Rushville 29 Bushnell 6

RUSHVILLE — Mickey Patterson's passing and running ability paced the Rushville Rockets to an easy 29-6 victory over an able Bushnell eleven here Friday night as the Spoon River Conference romped into its second weekend of play.

Both teams were cold and failed to reach pay dirt in the first period but experience and a few good breaks coupled with downright hard playing pushed the Rushville eleven to a 16-0 lead at the half-way marker.

Patterson threw a pass to Chuck Snodgrass in the end zone but it was intercepted by Bushnell's Craycraft. They tried to run it out but got tagged for a safety by Wayne Crum.

Bushnell kicked-off from the twenty and Patterson again latched-on to the pigskin for a seventy-yard waltz for pay dirt. Fullback Rexroat charged over for the extra point.

On an option play later in the second quarter Patterson charged the line and squeezed through 33 yards for another TD. Crum annexed the extra point for the Rockets.

The Rockets fumbled in the third period and Ron Craycraft led Bushnell 40 yards to make their only TD the hard way. The extra point was wide.

Dean Paisley threw a 15 yard pass to Snodgrass who rushed over the goal-line for the Rockets' only score in the third quarter. Bingham made the extra point good.

Rush intercepted a pass in the last period for the Rockets, and Terry Bingham raced 33 yards for the goal posts. The extra point didn't work out.

Rushville's record stands at two wins and no losses for the season; Bushnell has no wins and two losses.

Routt Rockets Trip Pleasant Hill, 6-0

PLEASANT HILL — Bob Winstead's injury-riddled Rockets posted a narrow 6-0 victory over Guy Carlton's Pleasant Hill Wolves Friday night on Fred Curtis' five yard tally in the second quarter.

Both teams had several scoring opportunities but fumbles and penalties halted their TD bids on the muddy field. Routt's offense moved good until it reached deep into Pleasant Hill real estate.

The Wolves had a 16 yard touchdown tally by Taylor Steinberg called back in the second quarter due to a penalty. It was Routt's second win and Pleasant Hill's second straight loss.

SYRACUSE, N. Y. (AP) — Billy Hunter of Detroit scored a surprise technical knockout over bull-like Alex Miteff Friday night in a bloody televised 10-round heavyweight fight.

Referee Joe Abraham stopped the fight at the end of the seventh round after Miteff's face was cut to ribbons by Hunter's jabs. Hunter weighed 187 pounds, Miteff 210.

The lanky Hunter opened cuts under the Argentine's eyes and on Miteff's cheek in a fierce fourth round.

Miteff, seventh ranked among the heavies, had won three in a row.

It was the first fight on national television for Hunter, who was taken over a year ago by George Gainford, the manager of Sugar Ray Robinson.

Hunter, who closely resembles Robinson, was leading 4-2-1 on the cards of Abraham and Judge Dick Fazio and Ed Nowakowski when the fight was stopped. The AP saw it 4-3 for Hunter.

The 24-year-old Miteff forced the fight continually with his bull-like rushes. The 6-3½ Hunter kept dancing and jabbing and used his longer reach to advantage.

Tempers flared when Miteff and then Hunter smacked each other after the bell ended the third round. "I'll get you," Miteff hollered across the ring.

Hunter, 26, who has been fighting off-and-on since 1954, has a 13-6-3 record.

A slim turnout of 925 paid a gross of $1,465.

Downstate Prep Notes

The new 19 year-old eligibility rule adopted by the Illinois High School Athletic Association this year has been felt in the Peoria area. Jim Carpenter of Peoria Manual high is being held from competition because it is impossible to determine his accurate age. Peoria Central lost Omar Moore and Lincoln (East St. Louis) lost two players as they reached their 19th birthday. The rule has created much consternation around the entire State as coaches and principals apparently were unaware that the regulation went into effect July 1, 1959.

Coach Lyle King of Princeton high, former coach at Waverly, has nine lettermen on hand including five regulars from last season. Bill Howard, 6-4 190 pounder, has been shifted from tackle to end and he has one touchdown pass during the initial game of the campaign. Macomb high has scheduled Canton's Little Giants replacing Jacksonville on the chart and Coach Bill Heerde's eleven will play at Canton on Saturday night. Canton football mentor, Leroy Macklin, is a graduate of Macomb high and Western Illinois University.

Don Kingston is the new football coach at Eldorado high school replacing Alf Adams who is away on a year's leave of absence. The Eagles lost to Marion in the season opener and Coach Kingston's eleven is the defending champion in the Southern Illini conference.

Marion high won a football game last week for the first time since the 1956 season while Paxton broke into the win column for the first time since 1955 and Flora's Wolves have dropped 22 straight games with only one tie in that winless string.

Jim Wieties helped Coach Ray Page's Springfield high cagers win the State basketball title last March and now he is the standout in the Solons' backfield. He scored three touchdowns last week in the win over Bishop Griffin high (formerly Cathedral). Jim McLaughlin and Dick Hincle are other standout backfield performers for Coach Willard Duey's Senators.

Taylorville, Litchfield and Shelbyville are favored to battle for the Mid State title while Roodhouse is the powerful entry in the Illinois Valley and the defending champion. Mattoon, Urbana and Champaign look like the sure contenders for the Big 12 trophy as the former is the defending champion.

I.S.D. Hands Farmers First Setback, 19-14

FARMINGTON—A strong I.S.D. team handed Farmington its first defeat of the season Friday night in a closely contested battle both on the offense and defense. In the first quarter Grob scored on a quarterback sneak from the three yard line, but failed at the try for the PAT to put the I.S.D. eleven in front by the score of six to zero. The TD was the result of a drive from the I.S.D. 30 yard line with one run by Higdon for 44 yards to set up the TD. The second half was scoreless for ISD with Farmington scoring a TD and converting the PAT to edge ahead of I.S.D. by a score of seven to six.

In the second half I.S.D. hit pay dirt first by again scoring from the three yard line on a line plunge by the fullback Higdon over center. The point after touchdown was Higdon through center to make the score thirteen to seven at the end of the third quarter. The fourth quarter saw both teams scoring on short running plays. Thompson gave I.S.D. six points with a sixteen yard run through tackle and the point after touchdown failed. The TD climaxed a drive from the I.S.D. thirty yard line. The final gun saw I.S.D. at the Farmington fifteen yard line and threatening to score again. One of the highlights of the game was the running of the I.S.D. fullback, Higdon, who covered 168 yards on the ground in the game.

A five-word question by Jack Paar on a December night in 1957 brought ex-radio comedian Cliff Arquette ont of retirement back to his crumpled characterization of Charley Weaver from Mt. Idy, Ohio. As a frequent guest star on the Jack Paar show his appearances drew lots of applause . . . so now he has his own television program, "Charley Weaver's Hobby Lobby." The road that wound in and out and back into performing began in Toledo, Ohio, 53 years ago. The son of a vaudeville couple, Arquette quit school at 14 and turned professional with a band of his own. Three years later, he broke away and headed to Los Angeles where he went from bandstand to vaudeville stage.

With the demise of vaudeville in 1936, he followed a successful radio career. At times, the many voices of Cliff Arquette were heard on as many as 13 radio programs a day. It was on the Fibber McGee and Molly show as the Old Timer that he ad-libbed the line that became a nation's catchphrase: "That's not the way I heerd it, Johnny. The way I heerd it, one feller says to the other feller . . ." Today for millions of TV viewers Cliff Arquette is baggy-pantsed, spectacled, walrus-mustached, crumpled-hatted "wild old man" Charley Weaver whose motto is "Think fast and talk slow." At Shumaker's we have a motto, too. Give your customers the best product and service at a fair price and your business will prosper. This policy works for us. We feature RCA Victor TV because we don't believe that there is a finer set available anywhere.
